An Italian Won.
Congress May Move.
Oats Seven Cents.
Why Make Millions?

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

A YOUNG American, Gene Sarazen, won the open British golf tournament yesterday, "shattering par" in every round except the last. Think of playing 18 holes, four times, in 70-69-70-74.

Gene Sarazen's father and mother are Italians. He belongs to a race that has contributed much to this country, beginning with Christopher Columbus, who discovered it.

In his victory over all comers, Sarazen even broke the record made by the incomparable and immortal Bobby Jones when he won the open tournament.

CONGRESS, IN its talking, planning, voting, taxing and appropriating, worries big business, and big business has been saying earnestly to Congress:

"Won't you PLEASE go home?"

And Congress has been saying:

"No, I won't."

But the veterans are in Washington, disturbing Congress as much as Congress was disturbing the financial big wigs. And now you hear that Congress will bring down gavel for the last time this session at the end of next week, and go away, not to give high finance the respite that it wants, but to escape the veterans.

Thus high finance is made double happy. Congress won't be there to do any more appropriating or taxing, and it won't be there to give the veterans their bonus money.

OATS ON the farm in Iowa are selling at seven to eight cents a bushel, many acres will not be harvested, the price not paying for the labor.

For use on a horse-breeding farm in New Jersey, this writer is paying 40 cents a bushel for oats, in carload lots, f. o. b., Farmingdale, N. J.

And this writer-farmer is selling first quality alfalfa hay, baled, on the Mojave desert in California for $10 a ton, or two pounds for a cent.

Under irrigation it takes five hundred pounds of water to grow one pound of alfalfa, which means you must pump a thousand pounds of water, cut and bale two pounds of hay, all for one cent.

No profit in that. Farming is complicated, and farmers may soon be saying, "Move over," to the veterans gathered in Washington.

EUROPEANS WONDER why Americans "work so hard merely to get money." Some Americans make money, as Indians made bows and arrows, with a plan of usefulness.

W. H. Donner, retired steel maker, gives $2,000,000 to study and fight cancer. Everybody, Europeans included, will have the benefit of the discoveries made through the fund established to help scientists in their work.

Money is power. Some use that foolishly, but more and more are using it nobly, for the public welfare.

COMPARATIVE prosperity commits suicide, while poverty hangs on and hopes. In yesterday's news a number of men, successful until the crash came, ended their lives because they had lost so much.

One poisoned himself, and told his wife never to speculate in stocks with the money he left her. Another blew his brains out, leaving a fortune of over a million, but "not enough to live for." Man is as poor or as rich as his imagination makes him.

One, with a million dollars, feels poor. Another, with nothing, is rich in hope and love of life.

ENGLAND GOES off the gold standard calmly, without making any fuss about it, and her prosperity increases. Explain that if you can. And her supply of gold also increases. Fifteen million dollars in gold is last week's increase.

This country hangs on to the gold standard, "like a dog onto a root," American financiers telling each other, eyes wide with terror:

"To leave the gold standard would be ruin."

And our supply of gold flows away, more than a billion in a few months.

Next week comes the Republican ratification meeting in Chicago, to renominate President Hoover. Politicians talk of "drafting Coolidge, to take the place of Curtis as Vice President." Not all the king's horses and all the king's men could pull hard enough to carry through that plan.

Mr. Farley, managing the Roosevelt campaign, says Gov. Roosevelt can win without New York's votes in the convention, or at the polls.

We shall be supplied with much political news between now and November, and much of it will be inaccurate.

A TRAIN wreck in Russia kills scores; sixteen railroad employes, held responsible, are charged with murder. A station master, and others, are accused of being drunk and mixing the signals, causing the fatal crash.

That does not happen in this country, thanks to the character of American railroad men. Prohibition or no prohibition, they are invariably sober. A drinking engineer or conductor is unknown. The American public that travels so safely, does not appreciate, as it should, what it owes to good railroading.

"Many of the peers present have doubtless benefited from

CONSTABLE SHOT DEAD IN AUTO

Two Companions Held as Police Start Inquiry; One Nephew of Burgess

By JOHN NEILSON
Staff Correspondent.

ROCHESTER, Pa., June 11.—Constable John Fee, 36, of Beaver Falls, was shot and fatally wounded early today as he sat in an automobile in Harrison street, near the Pennsylvania Railroad Station here.

He died at 4 a. m. in the Rochester General Hospital, where he had been taken by Calvin Davis, 42, of 616 Second avenue, Eastvale, and Norman Blinn, 23, of 419 Jackson street, Rochester.

NEPHEW OF BURGESS

Davis, police said, is a nephew of Burgess Stewart L. Barnes, of Rochester. He is to be charged with the murder, County Detective Robert Bianyan said.

Both of Fee's companions were arrested at the hospital, where Davis, according to police, threatened attendants with a revolver and shouted:

"Get to work on this fellow. I just shot him and I want him fixed up. Hurry up or I'll blow your brains out."

Police said Davis was intoxicated when taken from the hospital to the police station.

They also announced that they would co-operate with county detectives in an investigation of any possible "racket" motives behind the killing.

According to the story which police gathered this morning, Davis and Blinn, returning from a date in Rochester, met Fee and Davis, whose home in Eastvale is

GARNER IN BED, GRIP VICTIM

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP.)—An attack of grip this morning compelled Speaker Garner to leave his Capitol office and take to bed at his hotel.

The Speaker reached his office at 7 a. m., as usual, apparently able to work. After he had dictated letters for several hours his temperature began to rise.

Dr. George Calver, House physician, was called and directed the Speaker to bed. He was taken to his hotel by Mrs. Garner and retired immediately.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic leader, was designated to preside over the House. Garner's secretary said he expected the Speaker would be able to return to work Monday.

50,000 BONUS ARMY SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP.)—Unperturbed by fear of epidemics in their ramshackle camps, leaders of the bonus-demanding army of war veterans undertook today an aggressive enlistment drive to swell their ranks to 50,000.

Approximately 10,000 men now are camped in the capital waiting for Congress to answer their plea for immediate payment of their war service compensation, but Commander-in-Chief Walter W. Waters, of Portland, Ore., and his executive committee decided to launch a systematic campaign to multiply the size of the army in the next two weeks.

Recruiting officers have been dispatched to key cities which already have sent in big contingents. St. Louis and Philadelphia are among the concentration points chosen.

The process of dividing the army at new camp sites, with sanitary facilities superior to the squalid Anacostia flats, where most were concentrated, continued today. A general cleanup also was under way in response to the assertion of the city health officer that conditions in the camps constituted a grave health menace to the entire capital.

Argonne Veteran Dies on Bonus March

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 11.—(AP.)—A veteran of the Argonne, Lloyd White, 36, Cleveland Negro and a "bonus marcher," died in a hospital today, of pneumonia and heart ailment.

Dolly Gann in Greensburg, Stumps for Hoover

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 11.—There was no controversy here today when Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, took the seat of honor at the organization dinner of the Westmoreland County Republican Committee in the Penn Albert Hotel.

Mrs. Gann, guest of Congressman Adam M. Wyant, arrived in Greensburg last night. She is the Wyants' house guest, planning to leave for Washington by motor tomorrow.

Seated before the Wyant fireplace today, Mrs. Gann spoke enthusiastically of the coming convention in Chicago. She has taken the stump for her brother and President Hoover. Asked about her speech today, she replied smilingly:

"Oh, it's just a political speech calling attention to the grand things that Mr. Hoover has done."

She was asked:

"What things, particularly?"

"Oh, all of the things, some of the important legislation and budget problems and just everything."

"For his stand on prohibition enforcement and repeal?"

"No, that's for him to talk about."

Mrs. Gann appeared thrilled over the prospects of this year's national convention.

Today Mrs. Gann as guest of honor will speak to between 600 and 800 Republican county committeemen and women at the organization dinner given every four years by Congressman Wyant.

G. O. P. DRY FOES IN REVOLT

Hoover's Stand Leads to Rumblings at Chicago; Delegates Dissatisfied

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

CHICAGO, June 11.—A full-fledged revolt was in progress today against the prohibition plank which President Hoover is understood to favor for inclusion in the Republican national platform.

As drawn up in Washington, the plank proposes nothing more or less than resubmission of the whole question of prohibition to the states, with no recommendation as to how the referendum is to be accomplished, nor any specific question to be voted upon.

This does not satisfy the Republican anti-drys. They want a stronger plank—embracing the straight-out repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, and they feel they are strong enough to push it through. They are pinning their hopes to Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, who came to Chicago today with a plank far stronger than any yet proposed by those who represent the White House.

The Butler plank contemplates putting the convention on record as proposing outright repeal of the amendment. Against this is the plank brought to Chicago by President Hoover's emissaries, which merely says:

"We favor prompt submission by Congress of the (prohibition) question to the people."

It is axiomatic that the administration in power controls a national convention. Yet the administration was administered a sharp setback in the delegate contests decided by the Republican National Committee last night. The committee voted to seat the delegates headed by Perry Howard, of Mississippi, and "Uncle Joe" Tolbert, of South Carolina, notwithstanding that Postmaster General Brown backed opposing delegations.

Noted Boy Editor Drowns in Alaska

CORDOVA, Alaska, June 11.—(AP.)—William Alfred Moore, 13, editor-in-chief of the Chitina Herald, a weekly newspaper known throughout the nation, drowned today when he slipped into Copper River from a log while playing with companions.

The boy and his brother, sons of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Moore, published the weekly paper, which has been the subject of several magazine articles. He was graduated from the Chitina grade school last week.

THE PROBLEM

THE Pittsburgh League for Social Justice states: "In 1931, $427,000,000 was loaned on insurance policies in the U. S., while the goal for relief was $90,000,000. This means five times as many were sustained by insurance loans as by charity."

Mrs. Moody was victorious over Miss Round by scores of 6-2, 6-3.

The American team had captured all three matches yesterday.

EX-CONVICT LAUGHS AS PROBERS SEEK TO 'BREAK' HIM

BRINKERT BACKS ALIBI

Sleuth Who 'Broke' Curtis Attempts to Undermine Suspect's Story

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Ernest Brinkert, the New Rochelle taxicab driver who police claim was Violet Sharpe's companion on the night of the Lindbergh kidnaping, was being led through the nerve-wracking ordeal of questioning today by Inspector Harry Walsh, of Jersey City, the man who "broke" John Hughes Curtis and the man who is generally considered to be the cleverest police interrogator in the state of New Jersey.

Over and over again he has told his story to Walsh and Lieut. Walter Keaton, of the New Jersey State Police. Again and again as they drove from New Rochelle to Jersey City; from Jersey City to Hopewell, and from Hopewell to Trenton, Brinkert told them laughingly, defiantly, that he had spent the night of March 1 with his wife in Bridgeport, Conn.

In an effort to check his alibi police discovered that Brinkert apparently has two wives. One, Mrs. Helen Brinkert, said that she had separated from him in 1927, "had not seen or heard of him since then and cared nothing for him." For a moment police thought they had discovered the flaw in the cab driver's story, but then Brinkert, impudent and sneering, told them that he meant his present wife, Mrs. Mary Brinkert."

Another hurried trip to New Rochelle revealed that the second Mrs. Brinkert supported his alibi. She also was held for further questioning.

Meanwhile the aged Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the unsuccessful negotiations, had been confronted with Brinkert. Police wanted to know if he was the "John" to whom he had paid the $50,000 ransom.

Condon peered intently at the laughing and still defiant Brinkert and admitted that he didn't "look like him."

SUICIDE SPURS HUNT

Morrow Maid Who Ended Life Involved Man Now Held in Kidnaping

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP.)—The light of law that since March 1 has swept in groping circles, like a searchlight in black night, for the Lindbergh baby kidnaper-killer, burned in sharp focus today upon an ex-convict, Ernest Brinkert.

The sudden suicide yesterday of an English servant girl in the home at Englewood, N. J., of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow (the baby's grandmother), and the arrest several hours later in New Rochelle, N. Y., of the "Ernie" with whom she said she went motoring the night the baby was kidnaped, gave the investigation into the crime new impetus.

The girl, a waitress at the Morrow home for more than two years, was Violet Sharpe, 28. She was English-born, as was Betty Gow, the slain baby's nursemaid, who was among the first questioned after the kidnaping.

A woman who said she was Mary Brinkert, the cab driver's wife, was questioned. Both she and Brinkert had alibis covering the night the child was kidnaped. Police said the stories did not check. They declined to say what the stories were. Mrs. Brinkert was released after questioning.

PRISONER HIDDEN

Police had questioned Miss Sharpe before. They said she was the only one of the servants at the Morrow home in Englewood and at the home of the Charles A. Lindberghs near Hopewell, N. J.—where the kidnaping occurred and near where the child's body was buried—who had failed to account satisfactorily for her whereabouts the night of the crime.

Miss Sharpe told them she went out that night with a man and that they had driven several places, but until Thursday she had declined to identify him. Then, police said, she told them the man's name was "Ernie," and she identified a picture of Brinkert as that of her companion that night.

GIRL'S SUICIDE

Police returned yesterday to continue their questioning. Word was sent to the young woman that the police were waiting. She started to the room where they were and collapsed. She died almost immediately. She had taken a quick-

Betty Gow Called As Curtis Witness

NORFOLK, Va., June 10—(AP.)—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot today said it had learned that subpenas have been issued for Betty Gow, the murdered Lindbergh baby's nurse, and Ollie Wheatley, butler for the Lindberghs, to appear as defense witnesses in the trial of John Hughes Curtis.

The Norfolk boat builder will be heard June 27 at Flemington, N. Y., on a charge of obstructing justice by giving false information to the police in the kidnaping case.

Amelia and Husband Return to Paris

PARIS, June 11.—(AP.)—Amelia Earhart and her husband, G. P. Putnam, returned today from a visit to Rome, where they were received by Premier Mussolini.

Tonight they will attend a prizefight and tomorrow they will fly to Brussels where the King and Queen are to receive them.

Maid Suspected by Police Because She Was 'Fresh'

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 11.—(AP.)—Inspector Harry W. Walsh of the Jersey City police said today he and other detectives had first suspected Violet Sharpe, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow's servant who committed suicide yesterday, of knowledge of the fate of the Lindbergh baby because she was "fresh." Walsh said:

"She was fresh and impertinent from the start. She told us first how she and her sister had been 'picked up' by a man named Ernie on the evening of February 28 and how she had gone on a date with him the night of March 1, when the baby was kidnaped.

"She said she and he and another couple went to a picture show, and then on the third evening, for no apparent reason, she said they had gone to a cabaret 30 miles in the opposite direction.

"She was plenty fresh until the baby was found, and then when we talked to her, she was a shivering bunch of nerves on the verge of collapse. Then we went to work.

"We took her out for questioning and prowled her room. We found messages and address books and all sorts of stuff."

It was then, Walsh said, they found the printed business card of the taxicab company formerly operated by Brinkert.

Fellow servants in the Morrow home who talked with Violet several hours before her suicide yesterday, said she appeared hysterical and cried:

"They'll never take me from this home again! They'll never question me again!"

The girl was suffering from an illness which abruptly halted the questioning by Inspector Harry Walsh, of Jersey City, and other police last Thursday night. It was resumed yesterday and led to its fatal sequel.

EX-CONVICT GRILLED IN LINDY CASE AFTER GIRL'S SUICIDE

SUSPECT'S ALIBI HELD FAULTY BY POLICE

acting poison—a poison so dangerous that its sale is not permitted except on prescription.

The word went out immediately to arrest Brinkert, 30-year-old taxicab driver of White Plains, N. J., a man who has served a prison sentence for assault. He was arrested at New Rochelle late last night. After being questioned for many hours he was taken to New Jersey, waiving extradition.

New Jersey state police, who took part in the questioning of Brinkert, said they would seek his indictment, but they did not amplify the statement, nor did they indicate what evidence, aside from the circumstance of the girl's story and her suicide, they held against him.

'JAFSIE' SEES SUSPECT

Dr. John F. Condon, the 72-year-old "Jafsie" of earlier episodes in the Lindbergh case, confronted Brinkert at New Rochelle. He said he was not able to identify Brinkert as the "John" to whom he paid $50,000 ransom money in a Bronx cemetery early in April.

Other circumstances were being given close attention by the New Jersey state police. One was concerned with Edna Sharpe, sister of Violet. Edna was with the Morrow servant girl the day before the abduction. She sailed for England four days after "Jafsie" paid $50,000 of Col. Lindbergh's money to the mysterious "John" in the graveyard rendezvous.

Col. Lindbergh himself who, with his wife—the former Anne Morrow—has been living at the Englewood home of his mother-in-law, was present when the girl dropped from the effects of the poison. He was with the police a few moments later when they ransacked her room for some clue to the cause of her self-murder.

IDENTIFIES PICTURE

Police said she had identified Brinkert's picture the day before. The police alarm for his arrest, however, was not sent out on the interstate telegraph system until after the suicide.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police, said in a statement last night that the girl had been under "constant suspicion since she was first interviewed in the early days of the investigation." Her attitude toward questioners, he said, had been evasive and sometimes pugnacious.

She joined the Morrow serving staff May 13, 1930, from a New York employment agency, and was paid $85 a month. Previously she was employed in Canada and before that, police were told, in London, England, at the home of the Viscountess Falwell.

Brinkert is described by Westchester County police as a ne'er-do-well with a police record and a prison sentence behind him. He has been seen only infrequently in his usual haunts about White Plains since the night of the kidnaping in the Sourland Hills.

CRIMINAL RECORD

His prison sentence resulted from an attempted holdup of a milk wagon driver. He was released, after serving this sentence, November 20, 1926. In 1922 a man of the same name was given a suspended sentence on a petty larceny charge in Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and in 1925 he was found guilty of a traffic law violation in White Plains. Police records show him as unmarried.

The police searchlight in the Lindbergh case centered on the Dwight Morrow household from the outset, because its members were among the few persons who knew of the Lindberghs whereabouts the night of March 1 when their baby son was kidnaped.

MYSTERY CALL

Police inquiry established that Miss Sharpe telephoned Brinkert, about 1 p. m. the day of the kidnaping.

The baby was stolen from his crib at the Hopewell estate between 8 and 10:30 p. m. that night. Miss Sharpe was absent from the Morrow home with Brinkert during the night on an unexplained journey.

Police said that Brinkert had "picked up" Violet Sharpe the Sunday afternoon before the kidnaping, scraping an acquaintance and receiving her phone number at the Morrow home.

A bankbook found in Miss Sharpe's room at Englewood showed she had deposits of $1,600, none of which was in a large sum.

However, police detained the youth for further investigation.

TRENTON, N. J., June 11.—(AP.)—A measure to impose the death penalty in New Jersey for kidnaping was passed last night by the Senate.

GIRL SUICIDE'S SISTER FOUND

STOURBRIDGE, England, June 11.—(AP.)—Miss Edna Sharpe, sister of Violet Sharpe, the servant girl who committed suicide yesterday in the Morrow home at Englewood, N. J., left Stourbridge today presumably for her parents' home in Beenham. Miss Sharpe has been staying with friends near here.

When her father received a telegram from the New York police informing him of Violet's death, he sent word to Edna asking her to come back immediately. He said Edna had booked return passage to the United States on the Aquitania, which sails next Saturday.

The Sharpes have lived here for 18 years. George Sharpe, the father, is a coal merchant. He went out delivering coal as usual, but the mother was prostrated. She sobbed:

"Violet was one of the nicest girls in the world."

KIDNAPING PLOT SUSPECTS HELD

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP.)—William H. Duff, 18, a Negro, was arrested in a telephone booth in Jamaica, Queens, last night, while police said he was dictating a telegram to be sent to James A. Moffet, vice president of the Standard Oil of New Jersey, directing him to pay $30,000 to prevent his 18-year-old daughter, Peggy, and her fiance, James Carlisle, from being kidnaped and tortured.

Taken to police headquarters, Duff was said by the police to have implicated Arthur John Gaynor, 18, in the extortion plan. Both Duff and Gaynor, who is in Brooklyn Hospital for an operation, were arrested on charges of blackmail. A guard was placed at Gaynor's bedside.

Police said Moffet received a letter demanding the $30,000 payment on May 24 and at intervals since then six other letters, a telegram and two telephone calls were received.

PROBERS BUILD CASE AGAINST PAY JUGGLING

Mehard Lists Evidence of Irregularities as Basis For Further Investigation

Churchill B. Mehard, assistant county solicitor; Earl T. Adair, assistant district attorney, and Leo Riordan, county investigator, in charge of the investigation of payroll juggling and irregularities in the County Public Works Department, brought the preliminary hearings to a close temporarily today so that they could prepare for next week's arraignments.

Over the weekend, Riordan said, the trio will piece together information obtained in the questioning of county laborers, foremen and timekeepers, together with new information supplied by voluntary witnesses so that divisional highway heads and county executives might be given a complete list of irregularities for explanation.

First among the new allegations to be investigated, Riordan said, is a report that Paul B. Riis, park director, received $8,000 for directing the construction of Brentwood Park, a task he undertook while in the employ of the county, it was said.

Riordan refused to say when action against alleged crooked employes would be begun, nor would he say how he would proceed against them. None of the employes alleged in this week's hearings to have been guilty of waste, mismanagement and diversion of county labor and materials has been discharged or suspended, it was said at the maintenance office.

near Beaver Falls, and offered to drive the constable home.

STOPS AUTOMOBILE

Chief of Police George F. Goehring, of Rochester, said that he had been told that Davis, driving, stopped the car to let Blinn out near the railroad station and, doing so, took Fee's gun from him and said:

"I'm going to kill you."

The constable's revolver was found behind a radiator in the hospital. Police said nurses identified it as the one which, they say, Davis was brandishing when he brought the dying man in for treatment.

Blinn's story to police, starting at the time he left the auto near the station, follows:

"I heard a shot, and as I turned Davis was waving a gun over his head. Fee was slumped in his seat."

"Davis yelled to me: 'Where are you going?' I replied that I was going home. He said: 'You're going to take this man to the hospital.'"

Hit-Run Motorist Hurts 3 in Crash

STOCK SQUEEZE TOLD SENATE

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP.)—The word-portrait of a lamb close-shorn by the bears of Wall Street was appended today to the sensational record of the Senate's New York Stock Exchange investigation.

Senator Norbeck, of South Dakota, chairman of the banking committee, had wanted just such an illustration to give point and moral to the previously gathered evidence of huge operations conducted by market insiders. Yesterday Senator Blaine (R.) of Wisconsin put on the stand Ernest W. Stirn, of Milwaukee, graduate student at the University of Milwaukee as an example of a "shorn lamb."

Stirn, with the aid of his attorney, William J. Morgan, a former attorney-general of Wisconsin, told the story of how a giant short-selling operation was used to squeeze out stockholders in Radio-Keith-Orpheum with the result that Radio Corporation of America acquired for $11,500,000 the company that had assets of $67,000,000.

The squeeze, said the witness, was aided by a secret directors meeting of the corporation at which it was decided to assess stockholders $5 a share under penalty of loss of three-fourths of their holdings. Those who could not meet the assessment found their stocks snapped up by Radio.

OHIO TO PUSH CAMPAIGN FOR NATIVE SONS

State Democratic Delegation Plans to Stay With Own Choices on Many Ballots

By MARK SHIELDS

Editor's note: Mr. Shields, political editor of the Sun-Telegraph, is en route to Chicago as special correspondent at the Republican National Convention.

A harmony arrangement has been perfected between Gov. George White, James M. Cox and Newton D. Baker, by which the Ohio delegation will be voting for a native son for many ballots, possibly until the end of the convention.

White is to be offered first as a candidate for the presidential nomination. If there are several ballots, and he shows signs of gaining strength, he will continue in the fight. But if his chances wither then the delegates will caucus and decide whether to put forward Cox or Baker as their second choice. That decision probably will be determined by a canvass of sentiment in other states, and the one of the two who seems most popular will be given preference.

WILL GET SOLID VOTE

He will have the same opportunity as White, a solid vote for several ballots. If he does not win, or does not appear to be gaining, he will step aside for the third alternative. Even should this third man fail, the Ohioans probably will not have exhausted their native proclivities, for their are many who then would urge that Senator Robert J. Bulkley, an anti-dry, be given a chance at the grand prize.

If balloting strings out past the point where any Ohioan has a remote chance there may be a further caucus to consider other candidates, but the Ohioans have given little attention to this contingency thus far. White is personally friendly to Speaker John Garner, of Texas, but the delegation is being managed by State Chairman Henry Brunner, who will do any dickering with the managers of other aspirants.

WHITE'S HANDS TIED

Overtures to White have been made by the supporters of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, holding out to the Governor the promise of aid for the vice presidential nomination if he will join the Roosevelt forces. The vice presidency is known to be attractive to White, but the agreement between the "big three" ties his hands, and even should that pact be dissolved by many ballots, the Governor lacks power to deliver his delegation.

Among Ohio Democrats sentiment prevails that the New York Governor will not reach the two-thirds majority necessary to nominate.

Declare Hucksters Hold Market Space

Complaint having been made that many hucksters and a few farmers are using the sidewalks outside of the North Side market, a checkup at conditions there was being made today.

The market authorities say that under the terms of the grant to the city only farmers or growers are permitted to sell their products outside the market place. Some stand owners believe that if the people outside were brought in to fill up the one-third vacant space, it would create more business for the tenants.

Speakeasies Raided In Convention City

CHICAGO, June 11.—(AP.)—As convention crowds flowed into the city, 50 federal prohibition agents under personal direction of Chief Enforcement Officer Al Aman raided 15 alleged saloons and beer flats and seized 17 men last night.

The raiders were aided by a list of speakeisies which, it was reported, was placed in the hands of Chief Chicago Administrator M. L. Harney by Amos W. W. Woodcock, national prohibition director.

Mrs. Morrow Voices Faith In Girl Who Ended Life

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 11.—(AP.)—Despite suspicions of police that Violet Sharpe, waitress in the Morrow home, had guilty knowledge of the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow yesterday reiterated her faith in the servant's innocence even after she had committed suicide.

All members of the Morrow household had grown fond of her since she joined the staff of servants, nearly two years ago. She was a delicate type with dark, curly hair and violet eyes.

She came from Berkshire, England, about two and one-half years ago, stopping first in Canada and then coming on to the United States. She obtained her position with the Morrows through a New York employment agency.

At the Morrow home when the waitress committed suicide today were Mrs. Morrow, Dwight W. Morrow, Jr., who is home from Amherst, and Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh.

Miss Elizabeth Morrow, it was disclosed, sailed for Europe last week and arrived in England Wednesday. Miss Constance Morrow, another sister of Mrs. Lindbergh, is still in school in New England.

Bloomsburg Posse Hunts Aerial Extortion Plotter

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., June 11.—(AP.)—An extortionist to whom a dummy package supposed to contain $15,000 was dropped from an airplane Thursday night, was sought today on Hunlock Mountain by a posse headed by Sheriff Rabb and state police.

Police search for the extortionist followed a series of threatening letters received by Harry Magee, wealthy Bloomsburg carpet manufacturer. The letters directed Magee, an amateur pilot, to fly over a designated route and to drop the package of money upon sighting a signal consisting of three black crosses on a white cloth.

Magee flew Thursday night over the stipulated route, sighted the signal waving from a treetop on the crest of Hunlock Mountain, sent his plane into a spiral in acknowledgement of the signal, and dropped a dummy package.

Watchmen in a fire tower, upon seeing Magee's plane go into the spiral, immediately notified police who lined roads along the plane's directed route. The troopers and posse closed in on the spot where the package was dropped, and have been scouring the heavily-wooded, sparsely-settled section since then in search of the extortionist.

It was revealed that the extortionist's letters contained threats against Magee and his wife and two young children, Joan and Jimmy. One, it was stated, threatened:

"You know what happened to Lindy when he tried to trap them."

MOTHERS' FUND CUT DEPRIVES 500 FAMILIES OF RELIEF

BOARD PLACES HOPE IN EXTRA SESSION

Curtailment by State Withdraws Sustenance From Many Homes Here

Approximately 500 families that have been getting relief from the Mothers' Assistance Fund must look elsewhere, the Board of Trustees announced today.

Word has been received from the Department of Welfare that the appropriation for the biennium 1931-1933 must be cut 24.16 per cent to provide money for the the Talbot bill. This means a double cut, as approximately half of the money appropriated has been used in the first year of the biennium.

The cut goes into effect on the June payroll and 500 of the 1,178 families receiving grants will be dropped. The board decided families receiving grants because of the unemployment of the older children would be the first affected, the purpose of the Mothers' Assistance Fund being to provide for families with small children. In addition to these, the grants of some 250 to 300 of the families most recently put on the payroll will have to be canceled, thus depriving them of their only means of support. These families will be forced upon the private agencies, already overburdened.

The only solution, fund officials say, lies in the convening of an extra session of the Legislature which would provide revenue to cover the Talbot bill so that the Mothers' Assistance Fund appropriation may be returned.

Fund Slash Reduces Hospital's Service

Curtailment of service, payroll and personnel, the most drastic in its history, was approved at a meeting of directors of the Allegheny General Hospital yesterday. The action was taken as a result of curtailment of state aid to hospitals, it was said.

H. Lee Mason, Jr., chairman of the executive committee, receiving the outline of proposed curtailments from Dr. G. Walter Zulauf, superintendent, said:

"No other course is open. The state-aid cut of 24.16 per cent has been announced, and it may be retroactive either to January 1 of this year or even to the beginning of our last fiscal year, June 1, 1931. We assume that it will be. If that is true, our loss from that source will be in the neighborhood of $44,000."

Among cuts proposed is the closing of two free wards and a private patient section. This will make possible limited economies through a reduction of personnel.

The basic curtailment must come through reductions in payroll, Dr. Zulauf pointed out. The board accordingly approved a second cut of 10 per cent in wages and salaries, affecting all employes receiving more than $50 a month.

All employes above a certain minimum have been asked, further, to accept voluntary furloughs without pay in lieu of part of their customary vacations.

PRINCESS SUED BY LAWYER

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 11.—Claiming that he is still unpaid for legal services rendered for years to the Princess of Thurn and Taxis, Attorney Charles T. Tuit has filed a suit in civil action to recover $30,000. For many years previous to her marriage to Lord Fitzgerald, an Irish nobleman and later the Prince of Thurn and Taxis, she was Miss Lida Niccolls, of Uniontown.

Attorneys for the Princess contest the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania courts, implicating that the Princess is not a resident of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania but a subject of the King of Hungary. A rule has been granted on Mr. Tuit to show cause why the action should be continued in the Pennsylvania courts.

In her many actions against her uncle, J. V. Thompson, former multi-millionaire of this city, Mr. Tuit represented the Princess. He attempted to collect more than a quarter of a million dollars which the Princess claimed was due her and her two sons.

'HYMIE'S' ALIBI GIVEN JURY

CLEVELAND, June 11.—(AP.)—"Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin's alibi, supported by two women, today was before the jury hearing his second trial for the murder of former Councilman William E. Potter.

A deposition was submitted yesterday from Mrs. Elizabeth Vertman, of Pittsburgh, who said Martin was in Montifiore Hospital in that city on January 27, 1931, the day the state contends he was in Cleveland leasing the suite where Potter was shot to death a week later.

Mrs. Vertman's deposition said that while a patient in the Pittsburgh Hospital that day, she saw Martin come in to arrange for the removal of his mother. Her statement was offered after a deposition was read from "Akron Mary" Outland Woodfield, in which she testified she and Martin were in an Akron hotel at the hour the state claims Potter was slain.

The defense said Mrs. Vertman's deposition would be substantiated in a special morning session of court today by records of the Montifiore Hospital and the testimony of Martin's mother and family doctor.

DYNAMITE FIND TOLD IN TRIAL

Donohoe, it was related upon the witness stand in the trial of R. C. Bledsoe and Cosmo Stennogi here yesterday.

Between 25 and 30 sticks of the explosive were found by James Fike, contractor, engaged in the search. Fike, as a witness, told of the finding in answer to District Attorney Wade K. Newell's question:

"Aside from the gun and all other debris what else did you find?"

The contractor replied:

"I found some dynamite."

"How far from the spot where the gun was later found?"

"About 10 feet."

His testimony was corroborated by his son, Harold, and by David Lawrence, and M. L. Clark, an employe of the Buckeye Coal Company nearby.

HOOVER AGAINST DEFENSE BODY

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP.)—Despite the urging of a notable list of citizens, President Hoover has no intention of re-establishing the war-time Council of National Defense, believing it would serve no practical purpose.

He made his attitude emphatic late yesterday by making public his negative reply to a letter suggesting such action. This letter was signed by 86 distinguished civilians and presented at the White House during the afternoon by Gen. Albert L. Cox, of Raleigh, N. C., chairman of the American Legion's defense committee.

Edsel Ford, August Heckscher, John Hays Hammond, William Green, Commander Stevens, of the Legion; Clark Howell, the Atlanta publisher; A. C. Robinson, David I. McCahill, O. H. Babcock and Ralph S. Girard Millions Sought To Relieve Phila. Plight

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—(AP.)—When Stephen Girard died in 1831 he bequeathed to the city of Philadelphia a sum of money—now $85,900,000—to be used for "a competent police force," to "diminish the burden of taxation" and to provide for the "health and comfort" of its citizens.

The income from this trust has been used to finance various civic projects and to maintain Girard College. But Mayor J. Hampton Moore believes the time has come to dig into the principal to the extent of $10,000,000 to help the city out of its financial difficulties.

He appealed yesterday to the Board of City Trusts, which administers the estate, for a grant to the municipal treasury.

If the grant is made it would be the second time the great merchant's wealth has aided a distressed government. Girard put up $1,000,000 to rehabilitate the shares of the Bank of the United States in 1810 and virtually financed the War of 1812 by purchasing 95 per cent of a $5,000,000 issue of war bonds when only $20,000 worth had been taken previously.

HOUSE TO DELAY DECISION ON WAGNER BILL

Vote to Be Delayed Until Senate Acts on Garner's Proposal for Job Bonds

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Overwhelmingly indorsed by the Senate, the $300,000,000 Wagner bill for emergency relief through federal loans to the states was sent to the House today.

House leaders indicated they would delay action until next week in the hope the Senate might take up the $2,900,000,000 Garner general relief bill which the House approved.

WAGNER HOPEFUL

Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, declared, however, that he is planning to call up his own $2,000,000,000 general relief bill Monday. He said:

"I am hopeful for its early passage."

Failing to win Senate assent to the Garner bill, House leaders probably will call up the $300,000,000 emergency relief measure for passage before the end of next week. President Hoover has indicated he will act upon it favorably.

The Wagner measure was rushed through the Senate late yesterday in less than five hours by a vote of 72 to 8.

LOANS TO STATES

It provides for the issuance of new debentures by the corporation to finance the program, and includes definite provisions to make the loans possible to such states as are inhibited against borrowing by their constitutions.

This is the measure through which Chicago expects to be able to relieve the plight of its unpaid school teachers.

The money will be allocated according to population, and will be "repayable" by deductions from the federal road aid payments during the next five years.

Passage of the measure was a victory for the insurgent and progressive forces in the Senate, who have worked for nearly three years for some form of general relief.

Seven Republicans and one Democrat voted against the bill. The Republicans were Senators Austin and Dale, Vermont; Hebert and Metcalf, Rhode Island; Bingham, Connecticut; Moses, New Hampshire, and Reed, Pennsylvania. The lone Democrat was Senator Gore, of Oklahoma.

PICKPOCKETS ROB MAN, 70, OF $2,300

Life Savings Stolen Through Ruse of Friendly Greeting; Victim Later Collapses

North Side police today were searching for two men, one a Negro, and a Negro woman who robbed Edward Smith, 70, of 109 East Erie street, of $2,300, his life savings, in West General Robinson street, near Federal street, last night.

Smith collapsed in North Side Police Station early today, where he had been taken to attempt identification of a woman suspect. He was removed to Allegheny General Hospital and later sent home. The woman was released.

WALLET STOLEN

The victim told police a white man confronted him as he was returning home from a carnival in Exposition Park with the greeting:

"Hello Dad, where are you going?"

Smith said that as he conversed briefly with the stranger, the two Negroes apparently took the money, which he carried in a wallet in a hip pocket. Smith discovered the robbery when he entered a store a few minutes later.

GROCER ROUTS BANDITS

Philip Koenig, 65, a grocer, of 2904 Arlington avenue, routed three bandits who attempted to steal his cash register late yesterday. Koenig seized the revolver of one of the thugs and recovered the register, which the other two accomplices attempted to carry out. The intruders retrieved their revolver, but dropped the register and fled.

A short time later the trio held up John Grounds, 65, a confectioner at 715 Gearing avenue, and escaped with $10 from the cash register. The automobile used in the holdups was recovered an hour later at Monastery and St. Thomas streets. It had been stolen from Liberty avenue and Ferry street.

BEAUTY NAMED IN SHOOTING

LONDON, June 11.—(INS.)—The charge that Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney, beautiful daughter of a millionaire British knight, fired a revolver shot at Michael Scott Stephen two weeks before he met a mysterious death in her apartment was made today.

The testimony was given by Mrs. Dorothy Hall, wife of Mrs. Barney's chauffeur, in Westminster Court, where she was arraigned on charges of "wilful murder" and of shooting Stephen "with intention of grievous harm."

Mrs. Hall said, on May 19, Mrs. Barney and Stephen quarreled.

She heard Mrs. Barney shout "laugh for the last time, baby," and a moment later Mrs. Barney fired the revolver, the witness declared.

Dr. Thomas Durrant, summoned to Mrs. Barney's apartment May 31 a short while after Stephen met his death, testified Mrs. Barney told him that Stephen was accidentally shot in a struggle for a revolver.

The hearing was put over until next Saturday.

Slain Man Granted Patent on Device

A posthumous patent today had been granted Albert L. Culbertson, fatally shot in his home, 397 Jefferson drive, Mt. Lebanon, last November, during a week-end party.

The patent covers a new process for a continuous furnace for use in metallurgical work, according to an official of the Rust Engineering Company, with which firm Culbertson had been connected. The patent will be taken by that company. Mrs. Laverna Culbertson was acquitted on a charge of killing her husband.

Speed of Old Ship Saves 90 at Sea

LAGOS, Nigeria, June 11.—(AP.)—Ninety passengers on the Spanish steamer Tiede, which was wrecked Wednesday off Fernando Po Island, were saved by the tremendous burst of sailing speed of the 19-year-old British steamer Appam, it was learned here today.

The old Appam, steaming through the tropic night with flames belching from her funnels and the needles of her pressure gauges teetering around the danger mark, covered 104 miles in less than seven and one-half hours and arrived just in time to rescue the 90 from the sinking ship.

The lords voted to have children found guilty of indictable offenses punished by whipping. A constable will do the whipping, while a superior police officer looks on, and parents will be allowed to watch the process.

Noble lords that vote to whip children "of the lower classes," of course, would be indignant if any servant whipped one of their valuable puppies or colts.

FOREIGN BANK deposits are seized in Chile. The revolutionary government promises to give owners of the deposits Chilean money in place of dollars, pounds sterling or francs.

English investors in one South American bank stock offer to sell for "from sixpence to nothing" stock that cost $25 a share. They fear being held responsible as shareholders for what may happen to the bank. Uncle Sam protests to Chile against confiscation of American property.

Mrs. R. E. Beals, Husband, 'Family' Of 22 to Mark 14 Years' Work Open House Thursday

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

"Still living by faith and living well" are the words Mrs. R. E. Beals, founder and head of Faith Home, uses when speaking of the institution. Fourteen years ago Mrs. Beals sheltered the first of 260 children who have since called Faith Home their home. On Thursday she and Mr. Beals, and the 22 young folk who constitute the family, will keep open house and will give a program to celebrate the anniversary.

From 10 o'clock in the morning until 10 at night they will receive their friends and show them over the building, and in the afternoon a program of entertainment will be given.

All the Faith Home children who have gone out into the world are earning their own living, three are married, one is graduating as a nurse this year and another is in training as a missionary.

The home, as almost everyone knows, gets its name from the fact that the children are taught to pray for what they need day by day and that through their faith in prayer these needs have been filled.

FULL LENGTH COAT FOR EVENING CHIC

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 11.—Paris still counts the full-length velvet evening coat the most handsome of all formal evening wraps. Strangely enough, it seems to be the most practical one, too. Covering its accompanying gown from shoulder to hem, it may be worn with a dress of any color.

* * *

RIGHT NOW several of the Paris dressmakers are occupied in developing a full-length wrap that will not be too heavy nor too cumbersome for summer wear. One fashion house puts the full-length coat in a variety of materials — crepe marocain, light-weight wool or velveteen, leaving it unlined. Often it is cut on the same lines as a tailored daytime coat, but with a hem which covers the instep.

* * *

ONE OF the newer models of this type is the one just designed by Vera Borea—the young Italian woman who tests out practically all the clothes in her collection by wearing them herself. She has cut this new model on figure-fitting lines, with an extremely feminine silhouette. In soft black velvet, with a paper-thin silk lining, it is sufficiently light-weight for even midsummer wear.

* * *

LIKE MANY of the better type new coats, it is furless. A little shirred collar, stiffened slightly with cording, may be worn turned up at the back, or flattened down on the shoulders. Little puffs, likewise corded, appear at the shoulders and form the puff cuffs which may be pulled down over one's hands, like a muff.

AIDES CARRY ON COX'S WORK

Although Father Cox sails from Montreal, Canada, at 4 p. m. today for his eighth annual pilgrimage to St. Annes de Beaupre and Rome, and to attend the Eucharistic Congress in Dublin from June 22 to 26, benefits for his relief fund will continue during his absence, it has been announced by Brother Andrew at St. Patrick's Church.

Father Cox

One of the first to take place during his absence, is a benefit dance, to be held at McCune's Winter Garden on the Pittsburgh-McKeesport highway near Bettis Field on June 15. A radio broadcasting orchestra will furnish music for the first dance of the Winter Garden season, proceeds of which will go to Father Cox's breadline fund, Brother Andrew said.

WCAE radio stars will sing. Ann Zimet, famous blues singer, and Charlotte Shallenberger, who won an Atwater-Kent audition several years ago, will appear in person.

For every subscription that comes in on the Sun-Telegraph special home delivery blank herewith printed and for every subscription otherwise secured through the efforts of the "father of the jobless" and his aides, Father Cox gets a liberal commission in cash which is employed to furnish food and clothing to his army of destitute men, women and children. Here is your opportunity to help a more than worthy cause and at the same time bring a GOOD newspaper to your home.

HARBORD SEES WAR MENACE

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 11.—(AP.)—Maj. Gen. J. G. Harbord, retired, said in the commencement address at the United States Military Academy yesterday that it seemed "all too likely" that during the lifetime of the graduating cadets "our streets may again be filled with marching men." He said:

"No one who has known war cares to look on its ugly face again. But while envy, malice, deceit, and the baser qualities of human nature remain; while nations strive for commercial supremacy; with populations increasing in territories that remain unchanged; and with homogeneous races divided by artificial boundaries in continental Europe, wars will still come.

"With the Philippines turned loose to become the prey of the strongest; with the red menace in Russia; with civil war still casually going on in China; with Henry Pu-Yi shivering in the executive chair of Manchuria; and with a quota of hungry men and women in every country in the world; it seems all too likely that some day in your lifetime our streets may again be filled with marching men."

China Plans Treaty With Russia, Japan

NANKING, June 11.—(AP.)—A government spokesman announced last night that China, "prompted by a desire to promote world peace," was prepared to open negotiations with Soviet Russia for a treaty of mutual non-aggression.

Conclusion of such a treaty would mean automatic resumption of diplomatic relations which were broken off some months ago. The spokesman said China also is ready to negotiate similar treaties with other powers, including Japan.

Old Whipping Post Urged As Cure For Crime

BUFFALO, June 11.—(INS.)—Return of the old-fashioned whipping post for youthful bandits and stick-up men is advocated by Police Commissioner Austin J. Roche.

His assertion came after police had arrested Francis Irwin, 17, and Leon Whipple, 25, both of Baltimore, in connection with a series of holdups here and in Rochester, Baltimore and other cities. Said Roche:

"Prison sentences are insufficient to deter criminal-minded youths from crime. Our prisons are full of boys between the ages of 17 and 25. The only way to stop crime in boys of these ages is to strap them to a whipping post and lash the criminality out of them."

Mystery Girl Thrown From Auto in Ohio

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 11.—The mysterious case of an unidentified 18-year-old girl who was thrown out of an auto yesterday, puzzles police authorities. The girl, unconscious and in a serious condition in St. Elizabeth Hospital, screamed violently when thrown into the front yard of the Rev. E. B. Cobb. Neighbors say two youths stood on the running board of the car.

TOLEDO RELIEF SYSTEM URGED

A commissary system such as that in use in Toledo and Milwaukee has been recommended for Pittsburgh and Allegheny County by S. E. Claney, relief director of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, and J. Clyde Miller, president of the Directors of the Poor.

Claney and Miller visited Toledo recently and found that city purchasing its relief food in bulk and distributing at low cost through an organized warehouse system. The average cost per family per month there for a complete balanced ration is $8.04. The cost per person per day for food is 6.29 cents.

The use of the Toledo system here would make large savings, Claney believes. The question of installing the system here will be decided by the operating committee of the Emergency Association.

Open to everyone—men and women, boys and girls, living in Pittsburgh or within 100 miles of Pittsburgh. You must, however, register to enter. It isn't too late to send in your name on the blank below or on a copy of this blank. Bear in mind you cannot win unless you try, and these liberal prizes are more than worth trying for in these days of widespread depression.

FOLLOW THESE SIMPLE RULES—READ THE PRIZE LISTS

(1) The Movie Lovers contest will consist of a series of 60 cartoons to appear in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph—one each day for 60 consecutive publication days—starting Monday, June 6th. The contestants are to find the correct title for each picture from a list of motion picture titles that will be printed every day, scattered among the WANT ADS every day throughout the life of this contest. Mere lists of answers will not be accepted as an entry. The answers must be accompanied by the pictures you think said answers represent. Do not submit any pictures or answers until the entire set of 60 has been printed. Entrants are advised against an elaborate arrangement in submitting entries. Remember, the awards will be made for correctness of identity of the pictures, correct spelling of titles in your entry and neatness. Misspelled titles in your entry will be counted as total errors.

CONTRACT BRIDGE -:- How to Play and How to Win -:- By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Response to Opening Bids Governed by Rules

In response to partner's opening bids, certain definite rules have been laid down. Generally, any suit bid, after partner has opened with a suit bid of one, shows a clearly biddable suit, and if it is necessary to bid two, it almost always indicates that the suit bid has at least five cards. Sometimes the bidding situation is such that it is necessary, in order to convey a correct picture of the hand, to slightly shade the requirement as to biddability in a suit in order that a game contract may not be missed.

The hand shown below, played in a recent rubber game, is an example of responding with a shaded biddable suit to partner's opening bid.

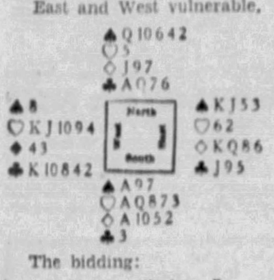
East and West vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass (1)	1 ♠ (2)	Pass
3 ♠ (3)	Pass	4 ♠ (4)	Pass
Pass	Pass

(1) West's vulnerability, although his hand contains one and one-half honor tricks, coupled with the length in hearts, makes a bid of two clubs inadvisable here. With West as declarer, the hand may easily be quite unmanageable.

(2) Correctly preferring the bid of the shaded five-card spade suit to two clubs or one no-trump as a response.

(3) In support of partner's takeout, South holds six playing tricks—that is, two more than shown by the opening bid. He, therefore, has two raises, which he gives.

(4) North's hand is stronger than shown by the takeout. Game is therefore contracted for.

In the play, which is fairly simple, the principle illustrated is the correct handling of this type of trump holding. Contrary to general belief, the correct play is not to lead a low card to the queen, but, holding A, Q, 10, 9 in the combined hands, to lead the Queen toward the Ace. This method of trump handling, in most situations, insures the loss of a minimum number of trump tricks. This assures a loss of but one trick in the suit whenever K, J, x are at the left of the hand holding the Queen. If K, J, x are adversely held at the right of the Queen, of course two tricks will be lost, but, assuming one lays down the Ace and then leads toward the Queen, two tricks will be lost in the suit, when K, J, x are at the left of the Queen. Hence, one of these combinations balances the other.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED
Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a two-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

There is one possible combination in which the lead of the Queen will cost a trick and that is in the case when the singleton King is at the right of the Queen and four to the Knave are held by the other adversary. This, however, does not happen often enough to balance the elimination of the guess.

The lead of the Queen eliminates the element of guess in situations where the King is in one hand and a Knave in the other and assures the making of at least four tricks with the holding above. Thus if the Queen is not covered, it is safe to assume that the hand at the left of the leader does not contain both King and Knave. If the Queen loses in this case, the proper play is to return to the hand which originally held the Queen and finesse the suit the second time. This will lose nothing if, as has been pointed out, both King and Knave and one other card of the suit are in the hand at the right.

Today's Question:

South—Dealer. North-South vulnerable.
The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	2 ◇	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♡	Pass	3 NT
Pass	4 ♠	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

What should South lead, holding:

♠ J ♡ K 3 ◇ A 10 9 6 4 2 ♣ A J 5 3

Answer: Jack of spades. A singleton trump usually is a poor lead. In this case, however, with the bulk of strength shown by West and the trump sufficiently high to force a higher honor from the opponents and thus aid in establishing North's trump tricks, it seems the best lead in the hand. A diamond lead would be very poor, for it would aid the declarer in establishing a trick in that suit. A heart lead would only set up West's suit and a club lead probably would do the same.

'TURN BACKWARD, O TIME!'

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

Fashion has genially let out her seams an inch or so to allow Gloriette and Gerty a rounder figure than of yore. But she has stopped there. "So far and no farther!" She has not let out her belt one single hole. And there is no peace and pride for the lady who is too stout now, any more than ever there was!

Can you get your arms in last year's sleeves? Your torso in last year's waist? You can't? Then this year's dress has to be a 20 instead of an 18, and your unrest has begun! To step up onto the bathroom scales and find the pointer flicking up to one hundred and forty, when last year it was one twenty-five. What woe! And then to toddle over to the doctor and find his scales, glittering, weighted, competent, marking you up five more pounds than your own did! With everything off but the necessities. To know that your work keeps you at a desk eight hours a day with you getting bigger! And the horseback rides, the tennis, the walks, that would be good medicine impossible. Oh, woe!

Big Betty decides because of these wicked conditions to hunt up a gym with a hard-hearted trainer, and step out there instead of to the movies. To eat greens and raisins, nuts and fruit, and forswear those lovely creamed potatoes, and hot muffins, and gravy.

And usually Big Betty doesn't! She loves potatoes, and the movies are more fun and MUCH "comfortabler." And her hours alone with herself and her figure are mournful and low-spirited, and her world seems to be beset with a myriad of girls hurrying, grinning sweetly, by, with figures like a dryad, a nymph, a faery, birch tree!

Once Betty was like that. And the burden of her song is "Backward, turn backward, O time, in your flight! And give me a 24-inch waist again without going hungry."

—NELL BRINKLEY.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Letter of Thanks

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My fiance has been out of work for about a year, during which time my employer has gone to the trouble of inquiring among his business associates as to whether or not they could use a young man, and now he has found a position for my fiance. This has made us both very happy, and while we have thanked my employer personally, in order to further show our appreciation, would it be proper for my fiance to send him a gift, with a personal note of appreciation?

If so, what kind of gift would be appropriate, and just how should the note read?

M. C.

Yes, such exceptional kindness should be acknowledged with a special letter of thanks, very definitely articulated, and the letter might be accompanied by that conventional gift between men . . . a box of "his" favorite cigars.

(And you will be in position to find out his favorite brand.)

The letter might read somewhat like this:

Dear Mr. Andrews:

I wish that I could find words expressive enough of my deep and sincere gratitude to you for your superb kindness to me. I realize full well your unceasing effort to find me a position for these past months, and now the great good fortune of getting such an excellent opportunity, because of your goodness, I assure you, Mr. Andrews, that I appreciate with all my heart your kindness and thoughtfulness. Such efforts are performed by friends who are so unceasingly thoughtful as you have been to Miss Cartwright and me. Thank you, thank you.

I assure you that, in this new position, I shall do everything in my power to warrant your faith in me.

Very sincerely yours,

At a Dance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a young man takes a girl to a dance, should he dance with her all evening, or is it proper for him to dance with other girls? S.

He dances the first dance with her, the dance before supper, the one after supper, and the last dance. Some others, if he wishes. But not all of the dances . . . unless he wishes to make both conspicuous.

Tell It to Sally

By SALLY MARTIN

Good Girls Will Win Out If They Play Game Right

Do good gals get the breaks; or do you have to be a "snappy number" to get anywhere in this day and age?

Little Anne wants to know. Just now she's puzzled. She longs to be popular, to go places, to see things—but how's it to be done?

"Be good and you'll be happy, honey," says mamma.

But does mamma really know what's what in 1932?

"Dear Sally:

"Will you please help me? There are so many things I don't understand, and some of the things I am told just don't seem to work out, so far as I can see.

SOMETHING MISSING

"I am 16 years old, quite pretty, so my friends say, and I have nice clothes, but there seems to be something missing somewhere.

"My biggest problem is that I want to be modern, peppy and popular, but I don't know how.

"I would like so much to be loved by other people, to have lots of dates and go places where there is fun, like I see other girls doing, and I think maybe I am too slow.

"I have a mother and father who are both dears, and are awfully good to me, but they both believe that the 'goody, goody' girl always gets the best things. They are very old-fashioned, so I think maybe they just don't know how things are nowadays.

"Do you agree with them?

"I know that there is something deeper than just clothes and the way you look that gets you by. What is it? I seem to lack whatever it is, and I wish that you would help me, because I think that you know more about things of today than mother and dad do.

"Please tell me, should I be 'goody goody?' Will I be happy if I am? I do so want to be happy, and I just don't know how to go about it—what I should like! Are 'good girls' best? "ANNE."

PARENTS ARE RIGHT

Are Mon and Dad right? Are "good girls best?"

Yes, honey, good girls are best; but if they want to get any joy out of their goodness, they must be good for something, as well as just good.

Just "behaving yourself" and "being nice" may win you happiness in heaven, but it won't gain you much popularity here on earth, little sister, and the reason for that is plain. Popular people get that way because they do something, give something, to the rest of the world. They make life easier and jollier and more exciting for other people.

But many good girls overlook that fact. They think they should be sought and rewarded for their virtues alone, so they pass up all the other merry, generous qualities that make human nature loveable, and naturally they become just about as interesting and inspiring as a dog biscuit.

On the other hand, the "bad girl" gets all the votes, not because she is bad, but because she is a grand guy to have around.

Mom is right, little Anne. Goodness is always your best bet. A nice girl will always win out, if she plays the game right, but she must add charm, humor, sympathy, understanding and good sportsmanship to her niceness, if she wants to find the real adventure of living.

But you can't have all these things yet. You haven't lived long enough. So don't try to force life to give you its gifts before you're able to handle them.

If you do you'll spoil everything—everything that is waiting for you just over the horizon of womanhood—for enduring pep and charm come only with maturity.

But they're worth waiting for. Prepare for them. Have plenty of fun. Learn to know people, to think of their hopes and dreams, of what interests them. Study what's going on in the world. Think about it. Feel about it.

Learn to be a warm, glowing woman and happiness will be yours.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Don't Take Anything for Granted If Stomach Gives Trouble

There is a group of stomach disturbances that are decidedly uncomfortable, and gastritis, meaning inflammation of the walls of the stomach, is the term used to designate these conditions, which are often confused with heartburn, indigestion, hyperacidity and other gastric disturbances.

Dr. Copeland

Acute gastritis is a sudden inflammation of the lining of the stomach caused by chemical or mechanical irritation. It may be produced by swallowing coarse and uncooked foods, by faulty mastication or by excessive use of alcohol. It is frequently encountered in such disorders as influenza, pneumonia, measles and scarlet fever. In these cases the irritation is produced by the toxins or poisons found in those diseases.

As a rule, acute gastritis readily responds to treatment, but unfortunately chronic gastritis is of a more serious nature and requires careful and prolonged treatment. The chronic form may be the result of continued wrong habits of eating. Improper chewing of food, hasty eating, excessive use of condiments, fried and greasy foods, or alcohol, over a long period of time may produce chronic gastritis.

The condition may be the result of a severe heart, lung, or liver disorder, or it may be caused by an infection somewhere in the body, as in the tonsils, throat, nasal sinuses, gall bladder or appendix, from which, it is believed, infection is carried to the stomach by the blood stream, or it may be swallowed with the food.

In chronic gastritis inflammation of the mucous membrane or lining of the stomach causes increased secretion of mucus, which aids in protecting the inflamed membrane. If the inflammation continues there is a decrease of hydrochloric acid and pepsin in the stomach—substances essential for proper gastric digestion — and faulty intestinal digestion and many severe ailments follow.

If you suffer from digestive disturbances, consult your physician, and by complete physical examination let him determine whether you have gastritis, either acute or chronic. Special laboratory examinations of the contents of the stomach may be necessary, or an X-ray picture of the stomach and intestines.

Diet is important in treating gastritis. Foods that are rich in fat, fried or greasy should be avoided, and butter used only in small amounts. Any food known to cause digestive disturbances should be shunned. Water should be consumed at each meal, and at least six to eight glasses of water daily between meals.

Avoid excessive eating. It is best to eat frequently rather than to overeat at one meal. Food should be slowly and thoroughly chewed. Avoid peppers, spices and condiments. Follow your doctor's diet instructions.

Household Hints

A spoonful of vinegar will make the boiled fowl or meat more tender.

Tears in your eyes when peeling onions are uncomfortable and unnecessary. While in the act of peeling onions, hold them under the cold water faucet and let the water run over the vegetable. Then if it is necessary to put them through a grinder, place a wet cloth over the top of the grinder and work underneath. There will be no tears.

Teach Kiddies Cheerfulness

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

A great many of us go through life suffering from the idea, perhaps subconscious, that unless we have something to be especially joyful about we might as well be solemn and unsmiling. Not that I advocate a Cheshire cat grin with no backing in spirit. Far from it. But why not give yourself and your children the backing of a cheerful spirit? What's to stop you? Being cheerful is easier than being gloomy, once you form the habit.

A teacher once told me she could always tell at a glance the child who came from a home in which there was no light-heartedness, no laughter, little good cheer—for as the parents are so will the child be.

I think one of the most useful gifts we can give to a child is the habit of never depending upon environment or circumstances for his happiness. After all, happiness cannot be put into us by ANYTHING. We must create it in our hearts, or it never gets there.

I like the way one mother awakens her 7-year-old daughter. "Here's another day to be happy in," she tells her. That certainly is a good thought to start the day with.

Children are naturally happy until we teach them that rainy days are "horrid," that the thickness of the chops is something to get angry over, or that "nothing ever happens here"—in short, until we teach them to be irritable rather than cheerful.

You can't give your child the cheerful habit unless you are inoculated with it yourself! Words mean much less to a child than a daily example. It's not hard, if you try. It is really easier to think, "I'll be happy until something happens to make me unhappy," than "I've nothing to be happy about, so I'll be sour and solemn." In fact, the things which might bring unhappiness have a way of sheering away from the truly cheerful person.

MANAGEMENT TO GROW IN IMPORTANCE

Motion Picture Industry Offers Big Opportunity To America's Financiers

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, June 11.—The management factor will become more important in American business than ever before in the five years that lie ahead.

Take the motion picture industry, for example. It turns out a product and a service which are still greatly in demand, yet the ratio of profits to total sales under existing conditions is ridiculously inadequate — scarcely 2 per cent. Of the major companies, only Loew's, Inc., has continued to show something like normal profits throughout the depression.

Mr. Rukeyser

The banks are very heavily involved in the industry, and until recently have shown little except a capacity to bungle. They have resented advice from competent quarters, and have allowed their decisions to be swayed by petty prejudices. Successful operators in the industry recognized the need of a coordinating field marshal, who will rid the industry of dead wood and waste. They say that there are too many theaters and that too many pictures — especially too many bad pictures—are being made.

OPPORTUNITY GREAT

When financiers once more resume normal behavior and begin to think creatively, they will find an opportunity in the picture industry equivalent to the one in steel at the time the elder J. P. Morgan brought order out of chaos through the creation of the United States Steel Corporation.

Louis B. Mayer, generalissimo of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer unit, a subsidiary of Loew's, who has been in New York this week before going out to Chicago to attend the Republican national convention as a delegate-at-large from California, told me that the profits of his company are continuing to hold up almost at last year's levels. In fact, he said that, if it were not for severe losses on foreign exchange, Loew's would show a substantial increase in net income. He ascribed the trend-bucking success of the company largely to Nicholas Schenck's capacity to say "no" during the boom period, when bankers were beseeching him to make use of cheap credit for expansion purposes, and also to the genius in production of Irving Thalberg at the Culver City studios. Mr. Mayer was too modest to give due weight also to the steadying influence of his own management.

Mr. Mayer, without trying to give stock market advice, remarked that Loew's stock at its recent low price had been selling at about 13¾ times current annual earnings. He ascribed the weakness of the stock to lack of buying power, rather than to anything in the affairs of the company.

With a return to normal economic conditions, Mr. Mayer said that the company should benefit both from increased attendance at its own theaters and also at outside theaters where its pictures are shown on a percentage basis, which has become the usual sales arrangement.

OFFERS SLUMP CURE

Mr. Mayer started to earn his living at the age of 12, when he peddled merchandise. Accordingly, it has become habitual for him to test his economic thinking against his own practical experience.

To relieve the depression, Mr. Mayer recommends: Governmental guarantee of national bank deposits; loosening of bank credits, especially to small business men; granting real incentives to the employing classes by lowering of oppressive income and profits taxes through adoption of a low, widely diffused manufacturers' sales tax and an excise tax on liquor; tariff reciprocity, with chief export emphasis on the Asiatic market; and such public works as can be immediately carried out.

Explaining why the movie industry was a depression-lag industry rather than a depression proof industry, Mr. Mayer told me that people will seek release in the movie theater even at the expense of paying their accumulated bills or deferring rent payments, but will not go when the choice is between movies, on the one hand, or bread for themselves or milk for their children, on the other. He illustrated the principle by recalling that in Lawrence, Mass., in times of strike the movie theaters would benefit for the first two or three weeks through crowded matinees; then, if the strike persisted, attendance would fall off. The same situation prevailed throughout the country during the depression. The theaters were hardest hit after the savings of the unemployed became exhausted. The 8,000,000 unemployed and their families are movie goers, and the industry suffers from the impoverishment of their patrons.

WEEKLY BANK CLEARINGS

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP.)—Bank clearings, while still considerably below those of last year, make much the best showing than for several months past. The total this week for all leading cities in the United States, as reported to Dun's review of $5,365,611,000 was 31.3 per cent less than a year ago. At New York City, clearings were $3,843,016,000, a decline of 30.0 per cent, while the total for the cities outside of New York of $1,522,595,000 was 34.5 per cent smaller.

Some heavier settlements in the first week of June have contributed to this week's total. This is indicated by the fact that clearings this week exceed the total for the five days of last week by $1,311,565,000. Last year there was a reduction of $872,043,000 between the two weeks, practically all of the June 1 settlements then falling in the record for the preceding week a year ago. The percentage of loss, however, at all of the cities compared with last year, is considerably smaller this week.

Clearings at leading cities as compiled by R. G. Dun & Co., showing decreases as compared with same period a year ago follow. (Totals in thousands):

ODD LOT FEES REDUCED

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP.)—Brokers who specialize in handling security transactions for the small investor have cut their commission charges to induce small buyers to enter the market more liberally.

The new commission is 12½ cents a share on stock bought or sold for "odd lot" customers. Odd lot brokers, who handle orders in amounts smaller than the accepted Wall street unit of 100 shares, must have the services of a highly technical and specialized force. A special commission is therefore added to the regular rate for 100-share orders.

The odd lot rate was advanced to 25 cents a share on buying orders when it appeared several months ago that security transactions would be taxed more heavily than Congress finally elected to assess them. The charges have been cut in half.

Under the new commissions, a buyer of a small block of $100 par value stock selling at $20 a share pays the odd lot broker 12½ cents a share plus a federal tax of 4 cents and a state tax of like amount. When he sells he pays another 12½ cents commission.

On this basis, a small investor who takes a round trip in a security transaction pays 25 cents to the odd lot broker and 8 cents in taxes, or 33 cents in all. Under the former rate, rescinded on June 6, the small buyer paid no tax. The broker paid the tax, but to take care of it the customer was charged a commission of 25 cents a share on his purchase plus 12½ cents on his sale, or 37½ cents for the round trip.

PLAN NEW AID TO LABOR

The state employment commission believes that the present is an opportune time to lay the ground work for a better organization of the labor market which will prove valuable to employers and workers alike with the return of better conditions.

The sentiment was expressed by R. M. Neustadt, director of the commission, who conferred here yesterday with H. F. Bucher, director of the Pittsburgh State Employment office, and with the industrial committee appointed by Gov. Pinchot. He said he drew his conclusions from the results obtained at the experimental employment office in Philadelphia, financed by combined state and private funds.

The industrial committee appointed by the Governor is composed of Horace F. Baker, chairman; Edgar J. Kaufmann, John D. Beatty, P. J. McGrath, Wilbur F. Maxwell, Dr. Francis D. Tyson, William B. Rodgers, Frank B. Bell, George T. Ladd and Miss Mabel L. Gillespie.

TRADE EXPECTS JULY GAIN IN STEEL

Predict Contra-Seasonal Upturn With Substantial Improvement in September

By B. E. V. LUTY

Steel production in May was lighter than estimated, the official report showing production at 20.11 per cent of capacity. Tonnage decreased 10 per cent from April. With production this week at about 17 per cent June will be still lower, making the fourth successive month of decrease.

Predictions are being made that July will bring an upturn, contrary to the usual seasonal experience. The fabricating shops have had a lull lately, required deliveries against their order books being light while there will soon be heavier requirements, and fully 90,000 tons of new business has been reported in the last three weeks, more than double the previous average since the first of the year.

The Steel Corporation's May decrease of 149,764 tons in unfilled obligations was seasonal. In 1922 there was a May increase, the steel industry being engaged in recovering from depression. In each of the nine years intervening there was a May decrease, averaging 329,931 tons.

PRICE BOOST ABANDONED

Contrary to expectations entertained more or less strongly for three months, no steel price advances will be attempted for next quarter. The much reported $2 a ton advance on semi-finished has been quietly abandoned. Bars, shapes, plates and wire products were recently dropped from the list of possible advances and now strips and sheets have disappeared.

Lake Superior iron ore prices have been informally announced for the season, unchanged from the last three years.

The local scrap market has been dull and unchanged since last week's decline.

Railroad steel requirements are on the wane, as rail requirements are practically completed and track material is less active. There are predictions that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will soon make some large loans for railroad improvements.

FORD BUYING EXPANDS

While Ford steel requirements are increasing, the remainder of the automobile industry is slipping a trifle more than Ford is gaining and Ford's peak is regarded as not more than a couple months distant.

Tin plate mills continue to average an operation of about 50 per cent.

Steel imports are small relative to total consumption but are disturbing by reason of the very low prices quoted, far below actual cost. There are large imports of continental steel into Great Britain despite the lower price of sterling and the British duty of 33⅓ per cent. The Iron and Coal Trades Review, London, expresses the opinion that such low prices for continental steel cannot continue without serious consequences and points out that some continental steel is being made as a by-product, the steel companies having contracts with municipalities for gas, power and light. The American Iron and Steel Institute has been making great efforts to have American duties increased.

ECONOMIES AID BROWN SHOE COMPANY

Unit Volume Up, Dollar Sales Off in First Half Of Current Fiscal Year

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 11.—With the second half of the year usually the more profitable in the shoe business, Brown Shoe Co., Inc., plans na slackening of production, John A. Bush, president, states. The company's new line, will be on the market June 20.

Through the utmost economy and co-operation of the company's management and employes, Mr. Bush said, Brown has been able in its current fiscal year to keep profits within striking distance of those of the corresponding period of the previous year. He continued:

"We have inventoried our hides at the lowest price in 40 years. Leather and shoes today are at extremely low bargain prices.

"Leading manufacturers of the United States must maintain quality despite periodic spasms calling for giveaway prices. Merchants seem to be vying with each other in a stock-starving policy and an orgy of rubbish-pushing sales that stand to blight their future success. It is time to face about and have adequate stocks of quality merchandise instead of excuses."

Brown's volume, in pairs, for the first six months, ended April 30, of the company's fiscal year, was 2 per cent above that of the corresponding period a year ago, Mr. Bush said. Dollar volume, however, was considerably reduced, due to lower shoe prices. Net profit for the six months totaled $516,967, after taxes and charges, equal after preferred dividends, to $1.58 a share on common, as compared with $658,003, or $1.72 a share, in the six months ended April 30, 1931.

Brown's current position on April 30, last, was one of the best in its history, with an asset ratio of 14 to 1. Cash and short term investments totaled $2,313,579, while the company owed no money except for bills not yet due.

Holiday Reduced Pennsy Loadings

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—The Pennsylvania Railroad System handled 69,788 revenue cars during the week ended June 4, which included Memorial Day, comparing with 80,991 cars in the preceding week and 121,338 cars during the same week in 1931. From January 1, cars handled totaled 2,003,219, against 2,669,881 a year ago.

CHICAGO, June 11.—During the first seven days of June, the Burlington handled 17,191 revenue freight cars, compared to 25,249 cars in the like period of 1931.

SHORTCOVERING AIDS SPURT IN MARKET

Severe Punishment Given Auburn Short Interest; Steel, Allied, Can Gain

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP.)—The stock market leaped forward again in the early dealings today, as further punishment was administered to shorts in Auburn.

Auburn dropped 13¾ points to 65, then rebounded to 75, in contrast to its recent low of 28¾. Short covering appeared throughout the list, with Allied Chemical rising 3 during the first half hour, and such stocks as American Can, American Telephone, American Tobacco "B" and United States Steel preferred, 2 points or so, United States Steel common rose 1 point.

Commission house circles generally attributed yesterday's sensational strength in Auburn and Case to technical conditions, although commentators mentioned that Friday's rally had followed the refusal of the market to violate the old average lows. Probability of smaller gold withdrawals had a favorable influence on sentiment, and there seemed to be a somewhat more hopeful attitude toward possible results of the Lausanne conference which opens next week.

Brokers who viewed skeptically the leadership afforded by such volatile stocks as Auburn thought the move would have been more convincing if it had started elsewhere, but they noted the influence of these shares on less volatile stocks in Friday's market. A few issues exceeded their best prices of the previous week's rally.

Foreign exchanges stiffened. French francs opened 3-16 point higher at 3.94 cents, but were still under the gold point. Dutch guilders rallied 3 points to 40.51, which is their current gold level. Sterling was up ⅜ cent to $3.67⅞.

Match Trustee Sues To Recover Shares

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP.)—The Irving Trust Company, as trustee in bankruptcy for the International Match Corporation, Kreuger holding company, yesterday began suit against four banks to recover 350,000 shares of Diamond Match Company stock.

The shares were transferred late in February or early in March to the defendant banks—The Bankers Trust Company and The National City Bank, The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh and The Continental Bank and Trust Company of Chicago—as additional security for pre-existing indebtedness of $3,800,000.

Business Machine Opens New Schools

NEW YORK, June 11.—International Business Machine Corporation has just opened a school of instruction at Berlin, Germany, for new members of its sales organization in central European countries, in addition to opening a school for student salesmen at Endicott, New York. Both schools are for members of the tabulating machine division of the company. The company gives all men a thorough training in its schools and within the past five years has enabled nearly one-third its employes to attend post graduate courses covering practically all phases of the business.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

The Letter

I cannot write of love to you, my dear,
The facile phrases that so often flow
Are empty words I spill along the drear,
Blank paper where imperfectly they glow
To loves imagined, gone, or yet to be—
A dream detached—irrelevant to this
Strange glimpse of some immortal ecstasy
That makes your kiss, so oddly, not a kiss.

My Heart, love-filled with essences of Spring
Has exercised a spell on reason's ways,
And that which moans between us I would sing
In words that are inadequate to phrase,

So mark my love in other ways of choice . . .
At sight of you—my heart is in my voice.

—Jane Sayre.

Capsule Cruelties

The firing squad which collects at all first-nights were merciless again the other evening when "Hey, Nonny Nonny!" limped all over the 44th Street Theater stage. One of them observed that Joe Miller was erroneously listed in the programs as Master Electrician instead of the author.

Another wit remarked: "Hey, Nonny Nonny!" came with the heat. It looks like the heat will stay." And when someone pointed out that the producer's name was Forrest C. Haring, a meanie moaned: "It certainly smells like Haring."

Ouch!

Then there was the short-lived show, "Heigh Ho Everybody!" by Herbert Polesie, which aroused an opening night oaf to nifty: "Help, Polesie, Murder!"

Heheheh

"Well," was the glum reply, "you ought to see the balcony at night. It looks like a party to a critic."

Wives Are Like That

When Chico Marx of the 4 Marxmen was in that motor crash on the coast recently he was rushed to a hospital where the first moments were tense. Would he live or die?

Mrs. Marx hastened to his bedside. He looked up at her wistfully and groaned: "Oh, my darling."

"Don't give me no darlings," she thundered. "You weren't at the club when I phoned—so where were you?"

Nifty

And Izzy Elinson hopes that the tax on rouge and lipstick will take the government, rather than a lot of pretty faces, out of the red.

New Yorkese

A Lady About Town, recently returned from Russia, was anxious to catch up on the news during her holiday. She phoned a girl chum. "What is this I hear about him?" she said, "what's the lowdown?"

"Oh, nothing, really," replied her friend, "absolutely nothing to those wild reports."

"Come now," coaxed the typically cynical New Yorker, "what are the Wise Guys saying?"

Have a Shudder

J. Chapman recently chronicled a ghost story which he said could be testified to by at least four persons in Brooklyn, where the incident happened. It appears that a couple were motoring home about 3 a. m., and as they passed a cemetery they observed an old lady coming out. They paused and offered her a ride home. She got in. During the ride she gave her name and address. Suddenly the motorist's wife, who was seated by the old lady, discovered that she had disappeared.

They thought this strange indeed. But remembering her name and address, they proceeded there. "Isn't this where Mrs. Soandso lives?" the old gent at the door was asked. "She did live here," the husband answered, "but she died 3 weeks ago."

This is a honey of a ghost yarn, but the same tale came in the mail a week ago, the sender vowing that it actually happened in Newark. So we forwarded the letter on to Mr. Chapman to show him that his ghost has a daughter!

Kidding a Kidder

To hear Bob Fender tell it the depression has hit the circus business so hard—that now they're capturing only those wild animals with at least 10 weeks' experience on the big time.

Pardon Her Shove

First Chorus Girl—"I don't look a bit like myself today."

The Shop-Talkers

Two of the Canyon's better known racetrack bookies ankled into Ramon's El Garron the other midnight after a disappointing day at the track. "Look at that Barbara Hutton sitting over there," said one of them, "she's really worth fifty million in her own right!"

"Ouch!" ouch'd the other, "if we had any part of it—think of all the bets we could lose!"

Are Times Tough?

Add Sillies

Will Mahoney offers the one about the Irishman whose wake was being held and two of his chums staggered into his late home to pay their respects. They were directed to the parlor but their knees took them to another room in which there was a baby grand piano.

"Ah," ah'd one of the mournful stews as he looked at the music box, "what an elegant set of teeth he has!"

Brewer's Horses May Get Big Red Apple in Chicago

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

All the guys who hate each other will be out there shaking hands.

It is an important scrimmage and decides whether or not Betsy Ross worked on the right flag.

It will open slow. But around Thursday the insults and the denials will reach the high C of animosity.

The only chance the Republicans have of carrying public favor is to give a red apple to the brewer's big hosses and to nominate Mickey Mouse.

It will be the usual private squabble in public and nothing will happen. You can wash dirty linen in muddy waters. But you cannot clean it.

Right over the platform will be the pictures of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Teddy Roosevelt. Like oxtail soup you've got to go a long way back to get something to cheer about.

Joan Bennett, Boles On Davis Screen

The Davis is screening a romantic comedy, "Careless Lady," with Joan Bennett and John Boles in the leads. Joan plays a young girl who sets out to become sophisticated so that she may win a boy she loves. In her search for sophistication she meets another man, played by John Boles. Things change suddenly and complications arise.

Man Faces Court For Shooting Ducks

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 11.—Two ducks that failed to "duck" when Harry Tarr, of Salem Township, shot at them, have caused Tarr to be held for court on a charge of malicious mischief.

Stella Gresak, a neighbor, charged that two of her ducks wandered onto Tarr's land and he shot at them, killing one and crippling the other.

Carmichaels Vet To Get Decoration

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 11.—Edward Hathaway, of Carmichaels, toll-taker on the Masontown Bridge, will be decorated with the Order of the Purple Heart by the War Department. He was wounded in France, July 30, 1918.

When everybody gets through saving everything in the world about a subject, why then Calvin Coolidge comes along and says what should have been said in the first place. English Race Classic in Film

THE GLOBE TROTTER

The greatest crowd ever gathered to see a horse race was that at Epsom Downs for the English Derby, thrilling pictures of which appear in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, with a graphic description by the Globe Trotter. The King and Queen are shown in the royal box and the elite of Mayfair and the denizens of Whitechapel are shown crowding about the betting stands with the bookies haranguing them. Then comes the parade to the post of the 21 thoroughbreds. As the race proceeds Orwell, the favorite backed to upward of $10,000,000, falls behind as April the Fifth, a rank outsider at odds of 100 to 6, wins by a half length. It is a remarkably interesting race picture. The current Hearst Metrotone News is on the screen of the Penn, Fulton and other theaters.

MR. HEARST SPEAKS

William Randolph Hearst is seen and heard as he delivers his nation-wide broadcast on the evils of the present taxation system.

"The whole system of income taxation has degenerated into a racket in which the public tries to cheat the government and the government tries to rob the public," Mr. Hearst declares.

Later in his address he asks:

"What kind of a tax is this manufacturers' sales tax? It is a tax which has been in successful operation in Canada for many years and in Canada it is called the painless tax because nobody ever knows when he is paying for it. You pay the tax in the sales price when you buy the article, just as you pay the tariff tax when you buy an imported article."

King Victor Emanuel and Premier Mussolini, of Italy, seated side by side, watch Italy's army airmen in 400 planes put on the biggest aerial exhibition ever seen in the country. After many daring feats the show ends with the bombing of buildings supposed to represent enemy munitions plants. Closeups show Il Duce applauding vigorously.

TROOPS RIDE

Fort Sheridan troops rehearse for the coming George Washington Bicentennial tournament to be held in Chicago. Cavalrymen charge through flaming barriers and heavy smoke screens. A horse, thrown by its rider, who just misses falling into a fiery hurdle and has to scramble for his life to avoid being crushed by the galloping steeds.

Herr Heinrich Ott, of Ruesselsheim, Germany, claims to have the longest mustache in the world and the pictures seem to prove it. By actual measurement his soup-strainer is 38 inches across!

In Paris they have opened a miniature zoo especially for children in which the little ones are given an opportunity to get closely acquainted with all kinds of wild and domestic animals.

Cadets at West Point put on a fulldress review to inaugurate Commencement Week. Never have the cadets paraded more brilliantly and with such precision.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

A FRIEND of mine, very prominent in the motion picture world, sent his wife to Europe early this spring. With business conditions worrying him greatly and with his comforting spouse in a distant country, he began to look about for some means of relaxation. He finally found it in the company of one of the prettiest stars on the Broadway stage today.

The sweet lady lived in an exclusive hotel in the Forties. When the affair first began the picture magnate was extremely careful. After all, he loved his wife—and this thing, at best, could be nothing more than a temporary affection. So, when he visited or phoned the star, he used an assumed name.

As the time rolled by, however, my friend grew a trifle careless. In the early hours of the morning, whenever he had a slight edge on, he would phone the lady at her hotel and give his own name to the switchboard operator when asked who was calling. This particular operator—a gentleman who knows all the ins and outs of the theatrical business—would promptly connect the two cooing birds.

The conversation would then commence. And what conversations those two would go through! He would call her his loving whatsis, and she would tell him he was her adorable whosis. She would mention his wife and he would laugh. He would mention one of her former sweethearts and she would cry. It was all most amusing, I hope.

But, as they say in the classics, all good things must come to an end. The picture man's wife cabled him that she was returning on the next boat and that she missed him dreadfully. She had probably missed him just a little less than he had missed her. But so long as he didn't know it, what difference did it make? He thought the matter over and then slipped the news to his pretty lady.

"Honey," he said, "we've reached the end of the road. I'm crazy about you and I know you're crazy about me. But my wife's coming home in a few days. And I wouldn't lose her for anything in the world.

"I'm sending you a little check in the morning. You were grand to me and I hope you'll let me call you every now and then. I'd never want to lose you as a friend because you're one of the grandest persons I know. Is there anything you want me to do for you?"

The star shrugged her shoulders.

"Not a thing, darling," she returned. "If this is the way it has to end—well, that's the way it will have to end. It isn't the first time in my life that a wife has stepped in on me, and I don't suppose it will be the last. There ought to be a law against such wives. It's positively immoral.

"Good luck to you, baby boy. I'll always love you. And you will please remember that when you make out the check to me. So long."

As he dined that evening the magnate was fairly happy. The affair had ended in a very satisfactory manner and his wife would be none the wiser. None except a very few of his most intimate friends knew about his friendship for the beautiful star, and they could be counted upon to say nothing. He smiled to himself. It tickled him to realize that he had been so clever.

Suddenly the smile faded. It dawned on him that there might be one person who could do some talking if he wished to. That phone operator at the hotel: He knew all about the situation. The magnate had given his right name to him. Why, the operator even knew the sound of his voice by this time.

The more he thought about it, the more the man worried. Suppose that operator had listened in on one of those hectic conversations? It wasn't really possible—but suppose he had?

The thing finally preyed on his mind to such an extent that the magnate decided to do something about the situation. Around 1 o'clock the following morning he marched up to the desk of the hotel in question and asked for the man who ran the switchboard.

"I'm him," replied the clerk. "I'm the night clerk and I also handle the board. Something special you wanted?"

The picture man reached into his pocket, drew out a $50 bill and pressed it into the palm of the other man.

"I'm J— B—," he asserted, "and I just dropped in to thank you for the service you rendered me during the time I called Miss S——. You were very kind."

The operator-clerk pocketed the money and murmured some fervent thanks.

"I'm certainly glad to know you, Mr. B——," he chirped. "You're a real sport. Thanks very, very much."

The magnate wet his lips. He was going to find out the truth right here and now. He couldn't ask the man point-blank whether he had been listening in. So he did it in a kidding manner.

"I won't be calling Miss S—— any more," he smiled. "And I'll bet you're going to miss hearing those long conversations I used to have with her over the phone."

"Listen, Mr. B——," he said reassuringly, "I know what you're driving at, but I'm telling you right now that you ain't got a thing to worry about. Whatever you said on the phone to that dame will always remain strictly between the three of us! . . .

* * *

IT HAPPENED recently, insists George Held, at a party that was held in a private home at Jamaica, Long Island. A gentleman named Williams insisted that he could drink anyone present under the table. And he tried his best to make good his boast.

As a result, when it came time for the party to break up Williams was barely able to navigate. His car was outside, and his friends insisted that he shouldn't drive while he was in such a condition. But he scoffed at them.

"I'm the best li'l driver in the world," he insisted. "I'm a man that can drive a car under any conditionsh. You fellows got plenty of nerve tellin' me I can't drive my car. Such a thing!"

They tried to argue with him, but it was no use. He had his mind made up, and that was all there was to it. So they finally gave it up as a bad job. They helped him into his car and watched him drive away. And the betting was two to one that he'd never reach home safely.

But Mr. Williams fooled them. He staged the best driving exhibition of his automotive career. Instead of hitting an excessive speed, as most drunken drivers have a habit of doing, he drove along very, very slowly. He crossed Queens Borough to his home in Flushing at a rate of no more than 10 miles an hour. At every intersection he exercised extreme caution. He came to a stop, gazed blearily to the right and left, and then went on.

Finally, safe and sound, he arrived in front of his home. And as he steered into his driveway he congratulated himself upon his remarkable trip.

Then he drove into his garage—and forgot to open the doors! . . .

Local Revue Good In Stanley

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

With its well-prepared local revue, "Pittsburgh On Parade," having more than 100 persons appearing in the entertainment, on the stage, and "Young America," a juvenile drama that you'll like, on the screen, the Stanley this week is giving its patrons full money's worth, valuable as coin is these days. The bill is so excellent that, for all-around merit, it can be counted as one of the best of the year in that theater.

"Pittsburgh On Parade" is largely made up of local talent, for which the district was virtually combed those appearing being the survivors of try-outs in various Warner neighborhood theaters. And they really put up a corking show, one scarcely needing the added strength of imported professionals, such as the goofy comic, Joe Penner, and the well-known blues singer, Sylvia Froos.

LOCAL ATMOSPHERE

The presentation is attractively opened with an atmospheric scene of Pittsburgh's furnaces and mills, before which a large male chorus stands and sings "Men Of Steel." Shown through scrim, it is very effective. The dancing ensemble makes its appearance, and a novelty it proves, too. After that things begin to happen, with Dick Powell, having so many performers to introduce that he has to refer to a list. He calls them from a tiered setting behind him, on which are grouped talented tots and children ranging up to young women and men.

And what a group they are, in the costumes of varied color, some suggesting nationality, such as Russian and other dancers, some suggesting buffoonery, such as a lad in checkerboard suit. Regardless of costume, they all do their little specialties well, and well merit the generous applause that is constant from the beginning, and really gets demonstrative when the first "artist," a tot evidently about three, sings about how she can't live "without that man." A baby without a babyish voice, she is a big hit.

PAGEANT OF COLOR

And so it goes, with song and dance largely in evidence, the singing groups including a double quartet of boys, from the beginning to the finale. And the colorful pageant is not without its "stars." They are photoplays stars, The Shearer, Crawford and others, represented by local young people who look enough like them to make good duplicates in appearance at least.

"Young America," the photoplay feature is a story about one of those boys who is always getting into trouble, and the screen treatment of it, although a sort of preachment on the proper cure for juvenile delinquency, makes an enjoyable photoplay. It is wholesome, heart-touching and inspiring, with some laughs as well as pathos. Tommy Conlon, a boy, will be liked in the central role, in which he is splendidly backed up by Spencer Tracy, Doris Kenyon, Beryl Mercer, Ralph Bellamy and another boy, Raymond Borzage.

Diver

Strange Love In Warner

By MARGARET RUSSELL

History almost repeats itself in the case of the "Strange Loves of Molly Louvain," Ann Dvorak, a new star, at the Warner this week. The story, based on Maurine Watkins' play, "The Tinsel Girl," concerns itself with the complications life brings to a child who lost her mother to a runaway fenor when she was 7 years old.

Molly's heritage was a note, with instructions: "Don't let them starch your underwear, keep your hands white with glycerine, and remember you're a lady."

Molly's first love was a rich boy, whose mamma had the marriage annulled before the baby was born. Molly tried to laugh it off with the help of a traveling salesman, Nick Grant, who degenerated into a holdup man.

Deciding to stop drifting, she gets work as a taxi-dancer and meets Jimmy, a former bellhop from the hotel where she once worked. Nick, the bad man, gets the three of them into a jam. The police throw a dragnet for Molly, who bleaches her raven locks to escape detection.

A classy reporter, played by Lee Tracy, inadvertently tricks poor Molly to give herself up. But when he finds out what he has done, he promises to fix everything, and it looks pretty much at the end as if the last of Molly's strange loves might be a success.

In addition to the feature picture, there is a Ripley "Believe It or Not," a newsreel and an Al Christie Comedy, "Now's the Time," with Harry Barris.

Penn Features Lombard, Morris

By EDWARD W. GOSS

"Sinners In the Sun," with Carole Lombard and Chester Morris, should draw crowds into the Penn. It's a good show. On the stage is "Broadway Revue," starring Harry Rose, jester.

"Sinners In the Sun" has all modern talkie requirements—action, love, comedy and scenes laid in luxurious surroundings. It concerns two people from the world of paydays who suddenly find themselves whirling 'round in the world of bond coupons and dividend checks.

Just how they were transported to their new world and what they do when they finally arrive makes the picture. Miss Lombard plays a mannequin. Morris is cast as an automobile mechanic. These two love each other. As per custom in the movies, the lovers quarrel. Carole seeks the "finer things of life" and finds them. Chester finds them by accident.

Something to be thankful for in "Sinners In the Sun" is the lack of heroics. Chester lays no millionaire cold to save the honor of his light-of-love. And Carole is not called upon by her directors to make "the supreme sacrifice." Both principals are convincing. Their supporters are equally efficient.

Harry Rose easily takes care of his end of the entertainment on the stage. Rose gets his biggest laughs when he and Norman Prescott, the mystic, put on a mind-reading act. Norman goes through the audience asking names and birthday dates. Harry, on the stage, calls out the names and dates. How he does it makes the laughs.

Fox Will Introduce New Faces

A great many new faces will be seen in Fox Film productions during the coming year. In addition to Lilian Harvey, European sensation, whose signing was recently announced, Fox has also placed under contract Marion Burns, Hollywood brunette, who went to New York to gain a stage reputation and a screen contract; Irene Ware, who was recently featured in Earl Carroll's Vanities; Arthur Pierson, Norwegian actor; June Vlasek, Vivian Reid and Janet Chandler.

Pictorial History of American Line of Conquest in British Open—Sarazen, Former Local Star, Joins Procession

For the eleventh time in the last 12 years, the United States yesterday won the British open golf championship when Gene Sarazen, former Highland Country Club professional in Pittsburgh, carried off the honors with an all-time record score of 283 for the 72 holes of play at Sandwich, England. Arthur G. Havers, the lone Briton to break the string of American triumphs, in 1923, finished third to Sarazen. Jock Hutchison first won the British Open for the United States, in 1921; Walter Hagen won it in 1922, 1924, 1928 and 1929, Bobby Jones in 1926, 1927 and 1930; Jim Barnes in 1925 and Tommy Armour last year. Hutchison also is a former local pro, at Allegheny. Emil (Dutch) Loeffler, Oakmont professional, is Sarazen's best friend, locally, and it was largely through his assistance that the little Italian first flashed to fame, winning the National Open at Skokie, in 1922. BUCS LOSE FEWEST BY SINGLE TALLY

THE CLOSE COMPETITION in the major leagues this year is not being confined to the fight for positions, but now applies also to the daily games. A most unusual feature in that respect is that of the 16 games played in the two big circuits the last two days, no fewer than 13 were decided by a margin of only a single run. A lone tally was the difference between winners and losers in three of the four National League contests on Thursday and in all four yesterday, and the same held good for all four American League bouts on Thursday and in two out of four yesterday. And still another game in the American yesterday, though the score was 10 to 7, went 10 innings.

Dan Howley

Dan Howley can blame the tumble of his Cincinnati club into last place on its repeated reverses in these tight tilts. The Reds have lost nine games in a row, and five of them were dropped by one run. Since the start of the season the Howleys have lost more contests by one run than any other club in either league, 13 in all. And the Braves are in first place because they have been able to win the great majority of their close battles, having captured 11 games by one tally, more than any other major outfit. The Pirates hold the distinction of having been defeated fewer times by a single marker than any other team in either loop. Yesterday's 6-to-5 defeat in Philadelphia was only their fourth of the year by that margin, against eight victories.

WHEN STEVE SWETONIC pitches a winning game for the Pirates, Larry French gets a big kick out of it. When French turns in a victory, Swetonic feels as jubilant over it as the left-hander himself. A win for either is considered a personal triumph by the other. They have pooled their interests and are pitching as a team. For Swetonic and French are roommates on the road, and are pitching for the glory of the room as well as for the success of the club.

"That's 10 straight for the room," chortled French after Thursday's game in Philadelphia had gone into the records as a victory for Swetonic. Steve has won six in a row and Larry has picked off four. Thursday's game was marked down as a particular triumph for the partnership, as French went in and saved the game after Swetonic had been taken out for a pinch-hitter.

NO OTHER HANDSHAKE that came to Lou Gehrig over his feat of making four consecutive home runs in one game pleased him quite so much as that given to him in congratulation by the man whose 38-year-old record he equaled—Bobby Lowe, now 61, who made four straight homers and a single for the Boston Nationals in 1894.

Gehrig and his mates expressed surprise that a man as frail as Lowe, who weighs only 155 pounds, had been powerful enough to make a home run record that would stand unequaled for 38 years. Ed Delehanty's four homers in a game in 1896 were not consecutive.

"IT DOESN'T NECESSARILY take big fellows to hit home runs," Lowe explained, "though Ruth and Gehrig admittedly are not lacking in size. It all depends on how you meet the ball. You have seen players get basehits when trying to dodge a pitched ball. I remember once getting a three-bagger when a ball that I was trying to duck hit my bat. I think that proves my point. It's all in the way you meet the ball." Lowe batted above .300 for five straight seasons. His highest average was .341 in 1894, the year in which he made his home-run record.

Jake Pitler

ONE OF THE best bits of managerial work turned in anywhere in the minors this year must be credited to Jake Pitler, former Pittsburgher and one-time Pirate, who has his Hazleton club out in front in the New York-Pennsylvania League.

Jake inherited a tail-end outfit when he was appointed to the Hazleton management, but he gradually developed a winning combination of old and new material, and it is due to his smart building and clever handling that the club is now leading the race and looks like a bright prospect for the season's championship.

JUST BACK FROM a visit to Hazleton, Attorney Dave Pitler, brother of Jake, reports the New York-Pennsylvania League to be one of the few minor circuits doing well this year in a financial way. Attendance figures have been consistently high all around the loop.

Harry Hinchman, brother of Bill, is again manager of Williamsport, succeeding Herb Moran, but the Pirate scout's son, Bill, Jr., has signed as a player with Heinie Groh's Binghamton club. Dave Pitler, a quarterback for Pitt in football in 1918, met another old Panther gridder in Hazleton. Dr. F. R. (Pud) Seidel, a lineman on the great 1916 team, is practicing dentistry there.

SARAZEN SETS NEW MARK IN OPEN WIN

SANDWICH, England, June 11.—(AP.)—Britons looking for consolation for Gene Sarazen's record-smashing victory in the British Open golf champ... reflected today that they n... the stocky American to win ... the start.

It was small comfort, however, for the ninth consecutive American triumph in this classic of British golf, and the eleventh time in 12 years that the trophy, in effect, has traveled overseas.

Sarazen's winning total of 283 clipped two strokes off the best previous aggregate for the championship. Bobby Jones' 285 at St. Andrews in 1927 hitherto had stood as the best mark. Gene spread-eagled the field in the first three rounds with 70-69-70 and then coasted in to victory by five strokes with a 74 on his final 18 holes.

MacDonald Smith, veteran Scot from Carnoustie, for the second time in three years, placed second. His total of 288 beat out Arthur Havers, title-holder in 1923, by one stroke.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE SEA-WORTHY AUTO—An ordinary automobile was driven across Great Salt Lake on January 8, 1932, by P. W. Rous, of Salt Lake City. This extraordinary event was made possible by the physical characteristics of that remarkable lake. The lake contains 23 per cent salt, and is quite shallow, the average depth being 13 feet and no depth greater than 50 feet. The pathway across the lake followed by Rous was less than one foot deep, with a bottom composed of a salt and sand crust. Ordinarily an auto tire would break through this crust and mire in the mud, but Rous equipped his car with air wheels and made the trip successfully. A CHAMPION ALE DRINKER—Squire William Lewis, of Builth, Wales, carved himself a spacious niche in the history of ale-drinking. When he died, in 1793, at the age of 52, he left behind a record of having attained to an unprecedented corpulency—a weight of 560 pounds, and of having consumed eight gallons of ale every day for 32 years.

LOTT, GRANT NET FINALISTS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 11.—(AP.)—With a fiercely fought victory over Berkeley Bell, of New York, George Lott, of Chicago, the favorite, yesterday advanced to the finals of the National clay courts tennis tournament in which he will face Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, today.

The score of the Lott-Bell match was 8-6, 4-6, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3.

Grant, captain of the University of North Carolina tennis team, and clay courts titleholder in 1930, defeated Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, in the semi-finals with surprising ease. The Atlanta midget's "jinx" over the Tulane captain was effective today and he rode through the match in three straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1.

The intra-club match of the Pittsburgh Polo and Riding Club will bring together the most skilled players of the club, lining up as the Greens and Whites. Such local favorites as Paul Mazuzan, Bliss Flaccus, Dave McCahill, Howard Adams and King McCreery will ride on opposing squads.

PIRATES LOSE TO PHILLIES IN FINAL

NEW YORK, June 11.—Despite their defeat in Philadelphia yesterday, the Pirates are only three and one-half games from the pace-setting Braves today as they prepare to meet the Giants in the first clash between the two clubs at the Polo Grounds this season.

Manager Gibson expects to use his hard-working lefthander, Larry French, in the opening duel with the Polo Grounders. Larry worked one full game and won it in Philadelphia and he saved another, but the exuberant one doesn't seem to think he has done anything out of the ordinary. So he will be allowed to heckle the Giants today. Harold Schumacher, one of the new right-handers of the Broad A outfit, is slated to twirl for the home team.

FOUR FRAYS CARDED

The Buccos will cavort on the Polo Grounds for four afternoons. Single games are carded each day including Tuesday when the Pittsburghers will move on to Boston to cross bats with Bill McKechnie's rejuvenated club. The jaunt will windup in Brooklyn. It will be noted there are no soft spots on the playing cards of any team as each and every entry is within striking distance of the top.

William E. Benswanger, president of the Pirates, is in town with the club. The Buccos prexy joined his mates yesterday in Philadelphia. He expects to string along with them for the remainder of the tour. In the event any rival club wishes to talk trade before June 15, Benswanger, with Manager Gibson, will accept the challenge. The Pirates would like to acquire another lefthand pitcher.

Heine Meine dropped a stubborn fight as the Pirates said farewell to the Quakers. Heinie enjoyed a one-run lead as late as the seventh inning, but the Quakers tied things up in the home half and then scored the winning marker in the eighth. Meine was opposed by Ray Benge, the two righthanders pitching the full distance.

WANER BOYS STAR

Once again the Waner boys were stars in a Pirate engagement. Lloyd and Paul made five hits between them, the older brother driving out a homer with two on base in the seventh to give his team the advantage. Lloyd came through with a double and two singles. Capt. Pie Traynor con-

BRAVES REGAIN LEAD

BATTLE MARKS DODGERS' WIN OVER CUBS

Associated Press.

The hot fight in the National League, so hot the leadership is changing hands almost daily and no club can foretell its standing by the morrow's sundown, is beginning to wear on the players' nerves.

They're becoming quick on the trigger as the days get warmer and it becomes apparent the field is so closely matched a single game may decide the eventual flag winner.

JERGES, FINN SCRAP

But for quick intervention from the sidelines there might have been a free-for-all in the final game of the Chicago-Brooklyn series yesterday at Ebbets Field. The tense feeling between the clubs burst bounds in the second inning, when Bill Jurges, of the Cubs, and Mickey Finn, of the Dodgers, started throwing fists after a collision at second base, members of both sides rushed in and there was a wild mixup before order was restored and the two combatants removed from the game.

The Dodgers went on to win, 4 to 3, behind Hollis Thurston's steady pitching. The defeat knocked the Cubs off the top and put the winning Boston Braves back at the head of the class.

Ed Brandt, Boston southpaw, broke the Cardinals' winning streak when he bested Bill Hallahan in a tight mound duel, 2 to 1.

The Giants made it four straight from Cincinnati, 4 to 3. The Phillies took their final with Pittsburgh, 6 to 5.

CROWDER BLANKS SOX

Alvin Crowder was touched for only three hits as the Washington Senators blanked Chicago, 10 to 0. The Athletics outslugged Cleveland, 10 to 7, in 11 innings as Simmons and Cochrane hit homers.

Earl Combs and Joe Sewell, Yankee veterans, connected in the eleventh inning to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 8 to 7.

The St. Louis Browns knocked John Michaels from the hill in the seventh inning, scored four runs and nosed out Boston, 4 to 3.

SANDLOT STARS CLASH TODAY

A trio of promising sandlot baseball contests are offered local fans today as the Pittsburgh Crawfords, crack local Negro nine, and Dormont, City League defending champion, meet the Indianapolis A. B. C. team and Canonsburg Gunners, respectively.

The Crawfords take on the Hoosiers again in a brace of Southern League engagements, the dual bill being scheduled for Greenlee Field. Last evening, the locals had little difficulty in blanking the visitors, 13 to 0. Dormont and the Gunners hook up in a single twilight contest at Dormont High School field.

While the Crawfords and Dormont are playing here, the Book nine, at present riding along in first place in the city circuit, invades Altoona for a contest with the crack Altoona Shops nine.

Tomorrow, in a benefit game for the welfare funds of the First and Sixth Wards, the Pittsburgh Cardinals meet Walter Barry's American Legion nine at Greenlee Field. The Legion team will have in its lineup several members of the Homestead Aces.

In City League encounters last evening, the Books turned back the Geislers, 6 to 4; Dormont defeated the Frank Ferris entry, 6 to 4, and J. L. Thomas downed Reliance Life, 9 to 7.

U. S. CUP TEAM ROUTS BRAZIL

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP.)—The United States Davis Cup tennis team has concluded its mopping up process in the American zone and now is ready to meet Europe's best for the right to play France for the historic trophy.

Brazil, last obstacle to a European invasion by the United States squad, was definitely pushed out of the way yesterday when Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn trounced Ricardo Pernambuco and Ivo Simone, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2, in doubles. The triumph was the United States' third in succession from the South Americans and automatically clinched the series.

Two more singles matches remained today, but they could not affect the final outcome. Allison was to meet Pernambuco and Van Ryn, substituting for Frank Shields, was to play Simone.

Bojarski Stopped By Billy Wallace

ERIE, Pa., June 11.—(AP.)—Billy Wallace, of Cleveland knocked out Frank Bojarski, of Erie, in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night.

Wallace outclassed his opponent in the first round, but the Erie boy more than held his own in the vicious second. He was tired in the third and was dropped by a left to the jaw. Wallace weighed 139¾, Bojarski 137.

Bitter competition impends for Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League racqueters this afternoon at Edgewood P. A. A., Shannopin, and Stanton Heights enter hectic battles for top positions in the Section I chase and inside track in the struggle for the Davis Keg.

Section II luminaries likewise tussle torridly, Sam Keller's Duquesne Librarians and Howard Moore's veteran College Avenue contingent entertaining Edgewood Seconds and Westinghouse Seconds, respectively.

Edgewood and P. A. A., tied for first place in the upper division crush, promise pyrotechnics as the Suburbanites lurk in ambush for Stanton Heights and the Winged Headmen invade Westinghouse. P. A. A. will toe the mark minus Capt. Dave O'Loughlin, whose ailing shoulder still keeps him out of action. It is hoped that the Red and Gray will support Wally Arensberg, recently elected boss of the Harvard 1933 net combine, in its line-up.

Meanwhile, Shannopin and Mt. Lebanon will mingle on the former's lot in an affair that the well-balanced North Boroughs delegation seems likely to cop. University Club, at home to South Hills, can boost its standing materially by counting impressively over the Hilltoppers.

In Section II, Duquesne Library boasts power enough to account neatly for Edgewood's reserve outfit and the same goes for College Avenue against Westinghouse Seconds. Harry Milton's new Y. M. H. A. aggregation rounds out the bill by staging circuit debut at Washington Heights.

This afternoon's league card offers final glimpse of team hostilities till July 9, the Western Pennsylvania championships at Stanton Heights having been alloted the next two Saturdays and the Westmoreland County championships at the Greensburg Country Club monopolizing Fourth of July week-end.

An excusable fumble by Leftfielder Gus Dugas in the eighth gave the Quakers the winning run. G. Davis walked with two out and Bartell doubled to left. Dugas could not field the ball and the head runner went all the way to the plate with the important marker.

PAUL HITS HOMER

The Quakers reached Meine for four hits and three runs in the second. Three Pittsburgh singles in the fourth were high spots of a two-run drive. The third hit was a safety from Earl Grace's bat with two out and the bases filled to score both runs. The Phillies picked up another run in the fifth, but the two-run lead as discounted when P. Waner hit over the garden wall with two aboard. Brother Paul held to his batting supremacy of the majors. Grace came out of the battle with four hits.

U. S. Stars Lead In British Matches

EASTBOURNE, England, June 11.—(AP.)—The United States took a lead of two matches to one in an informal tennis series with a British team yesterday.

Following on a split in the two singles matches Thursday, Sidney B. Wood, Jr., and Gregory Mangin forged to the front by defeating Ian Collins and J. C. Gregory in the doubles. The Americans were carried to four sets before they won, 6-3, 6-3, 5-7, 10-8.

sidered unlikely that he would have broken the American outdoor record of 4:12 2-5, set by H. A. Hill, of Oregon, in 1930, and tied last April by Norwook Hallowell, of Harvard. Venzke withdrew from today's meet because of a hip injury, and he is cautious against overdoing things. "I am going to work into form slowly," he said. "The Olympic Games are quite a while in the future and I want to reach them at the peak, provided I make the American team. You can't turn on the heat in June simply by remaking the fire in the furnace that went out in March. You've got to coax yourself along."

THERE IS ANOTHER old Metropolitan record that may not escape being smashed today, however. That is the quarter-mile mark of 49 2-5 seconds, hung up by Maxie Long in 1897. It doesn't compare with Ben Eastman's performances of 1932, but it has stood as the Metropolitan record for 35 years and has been equaled only once, by Wilkie, in 1915.

The record-breaking attempt today will have a bit of Pittsburgh color, as among the starters will be Pete Bowen, former Pitt runner. Horace Whitney, of Colgate, and Harry Hoffman, of New York U., are figured to have an edge on Bowen, but it is considered almost certain that some member of the trio will succeed in toppling the old figures.

AMONG THE PROMINENT boxing men picking Max Schmeling to retain his title by defeating Jack Sharkey on June 21 is none other than Jim Crowley, referee of the first encounter two years ago, when the championship went to the German on a foul in the fourth round.

Joe Jacobs

Crowley believes that Schmeling would have risen and gone on to win if Manager Joe Jacobs had not shouted and motioned to him to remain on the floor. He thinks Max will win the second fight by knocking out the former gob.

CROWLEY THINKS SCHMELING would not have claimed a foul if Jacobs had not coached him into doing so. For his own appearance of incompetency at the time, and the confusion that ensued when Jacobs outlouded Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, he blames a New York commission rule that has since been rescinded. "The referee was required to consult the judges on happenings of that kind," Crowley says. "Charley Mathison was in no position to see the punch, so the decision actually was made by the other judge, Harold Barnes. I disliked to give the decision I was thus forced to give, and that's why I took my time about it. Schmeling scarcely would have been counted out had he taken a count, and his seconds then would have had a full minute to bring him around. The no-foul rule is the finest regulation ever written into the books. If there had to be a goat in the first Sharkey-Schmeling fight—that is, in addition to the customers—I am happy to have been the martyr in a good cause."

IT LOOKS LIKE a big year for Gene Sarazen. The success of the former Pittsburgh pro in major golf competition is not likely to end with his victory in the Birtish open by the record-breaking score of 283, a triumph that brings the oldest of all championships to the United States for the eleventh time in the last 12 years.

On his early spring form, Sarazen appeared to be headed for an unusually good season, and he more than lived up to exceptations by his sensational performance at Sandwich. It will be a hard job for any of the other star pros or amateurs to keep him from following up with another victory in the coming United States open, in which he scored his first major success in 1922.

BUCKEYE STARS N. C. A. A. MEET FAVORITES

CHICAGO, June 11.—(A.P.)—Ohio State, the last Big Ten school to win the National Collegiate Athletic Association track championship before Southern California dominated the field, was a long favorite to regain it today at Stagg Field.

The Buckeyes, with George Simpson and Dick Rockaway carrying the burden, won the title in 1929. Southern California's Trojans took it in 1930 and 1931, but did not come back this year to defend it.

Ohio State's hopes rested in another sprinter and hurdler combination—Don Bennett and Jack Keller, along with a qualifier each in the javelin and quarter-mile, plus John Wonsowicz in the pole vault, and John Black, who also qualified in the high hurdles.

BENNETT CENTURY HOPE

Bennett was given an even chance of beating Ralph Metcalfe, the Negro flyer from Marquette, in the "century," but the latter appeared to be a standout in the 220-yard dash. Keller also faced a trying afternoon, with George Saling, of Iowa, as the troublemaker. Keller won his heat in the lows yesterday, but finished an easy second to Charles Scheifley, of Minnesota, in the highs. Saling won his heats in both events, and in the lows, reeled off a mark of 23.1, a tenth of a second faster than the meet record.

Bennett won his heat in the furlong, but was beaten by another Negro, Jim Johnson, of Illinois State Normal, in the 100-yard dash.

Two of the "ineligible" group, men not eligible for points, but qualified to try for the Olympic finals at Palo Alto, Cal., next month, won trials in impressive style. Dwight Purvis, a freshman at Purdue, fired the javelin 204 feet 4¾ inches to lead the qualifiers.

BREAKS 880 MARK

E. Gray, of Abilene Christian, Texas, raced his heat in the half-mile in 1:53.2, to clip three-tenths of a second from the meet record. The mark will not stand, however.

Winners of first, second and third places will be eligible for the final Olympic trials unless a committee composed of A. A. Stagg, of Chicago; Tom Jones, of Wisconsin, and Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten Athletic Commissioner, should decide otherwise on the basis of performance.

Following are colleges and universities which qualified men for the finals today, and the number of places:

Ohio State, seven; Minnesota, Illinois and Oklahoma, five each; Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, Wisconsin, Marquette, Illinois State Normal and Georgia, four each; North Dakota and Kansas, three each; Michigan State College, Kansas State, Michigan Normal, Bradley and Northwestern, two each; Notre Dame, Chicago, Missouri, Iowa State, Texas, Purdue, Elmhurst, DePaul, Hampton Institute, Southern Illinois Normal, Penn College, Oskaloosa Iowa, Morningside, Ohio Wesleyan, Lake Forest, Drake, College of the City of Detroit, Nebraska, Oklahoma A. and M., Butler and Western (Mich.) State Teachers, one each.

WESTMORELAND COPS TITLE

By TOM BIRKS

Westmoreland Country Club's team captured the title in Section II of the Women's Golf Association team play yesterday as the section completed its schedule and won the right to battle the last place contingent of Section I for the right to compete in the upper division next season.

Westmoreland defeated the Country Club team yesterday, 5 to 2. Youghiogheny downed Longue Vue, 6 to 2 and Shannopin tripped St. Clair by the same score.

In Section I, Oakmont went into the lead by taking over Fox Chapel, 5 to 3. The Field Club nosed out Allegheny, 4 to 3 and Butler won over Stanton Heights, 4 to 3.

Oakmont now holds a lead of one point over Allegheny, with 22 points to 21. The Field Clubs is third with 20 and Fox Chapel fourth with 15. Stanton Heights and Butler have 13 each and Edgewood has 10.

The Shady Side and McKeesport High School golf teams battled to a 9-9 tie yesterday at Fox Chapel in a play-off match for the runner-up position in the Interscholastic Golf Conference and will have both their names inscribed on the C. L. Lott cup. The Conference title was won, hands down, by Kiski.

U. S. WOMEN NETTERS LEAD

WIMBLEDON, England, June 11.—(AP.)—Their wholly unexpected clean sweep of the first three matches left American women tennis stars needing only two more victories today to insure retention of the Wightman Cup, won from Great Britain last summer.

The British were routed by three Californians, Helen Wills Moody, Helen Jacobs and Mrs. L. A. Harper, as the annual international series opened yesterday and failed to take a set in three matches.

Although erratic, Mrs. Moody defeated Eileen Bennett Whittingstall, 6-2, 6-4; Miss Jacobs defeated Dorothy Round, 6-4, 6-3, and Mrs. Harper and Miss Jacobs conquered Miss Round and Mrs. L. R. C. Michell in doubles, 6-4, 6-1.

America needed only to split even in today's last four matches to win the cup for the sixth time in its 10-year history.

FEDERAL TAX TO APPLY TO FIGHTS

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor.

Boxing prices will be affected by the new federal tax, effective July 1. The tariff will be 10 per cent, which will increase the present scale in the Pittsburgh district to $1.10, $2.20 and $3.30.

A card of four eight-round battles featuring local talent has been arranged for Hickey Park, Millvale, next Thursday night as a buildup for the following card of battles in that arena.

SALA TOPS MILLVALE CARD

Lee Sala, of Donora, will box Billy Flanagan, of Clearfield and Braddock, in the windup, with the winner qualifying to meet Tommy Freeman, former welterweight champion, and recent conqueror of Buck McTiernan in the Millvale ring. Jackie Wilson, East End Negro featherweight, will oppose Johnny Cataline, of Charleston, W. Va., and Oakland, with the winner meeting Chico Cisneros, of Cleveland, later. Sunny Jim McVey, local Negro light-heavyweight, will box Tiger Joe West, another local performer, and Anson Green, Homestead Negro middleweight, will tangle with Carl Montebano, of Braddock, who broke his jaw and defeated him in a bout in the Moose Temple.

Johnny Indrisano, of Boston, conqueror of three world welterweight champions in non-title bouts, will arrive in town tomorrow morning for his 10-round windup with Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, at the Meyers Bowl, Monday night.

DURIS IN SPECIAL BOUT

The Mickey Duris-Prince Saunders eight-round battle will follow the Billy Petrolle-Tommy Grogan bout at Greenlee Field next Wednesday night. Len Sheppard, of Detroit, has been matched with Charley Baxter, local lightweight, for the second preliminary, and there will be one other six-round bout.

M'FADDEN RAPS U. S. RESERVE

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP.)—Representative McFadden (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, yesterday urged the House to take steps to abolish the Federal Reserve Banking system, which he described as "one of the most corrupt institutions the world has ever known."

In the midst of his assault of "those 12 private credit monopolies deceitfully and disloyally foisted upon this country," the former chairman of the House Banking Committee loosed an attack on President Hoover.

He referred to international financial dealings in which the late Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king, was concerned and added that "the nature of Kreuger's organized swindle and the bankrupt condition of Kreuger was known here last June when Hoover sought to exempt Kreuger's loan to Germany of 125,000,000 marks from the operation of the moratorium."

Young Shepard Persistent in His Efforts to Keep On Seeing Lynn

CHAPTER IV.

Lynn said, dissatisfied, "Somehow, I don't see you as an announcer."

"Oh, announcing!" Tom dismissed it with a wave of his hand "I don't want to do that. The control room—the lab—that's where I'd like to be, digging out new ways, learning, discovering."

He was off. By the time they had reached the fluffy stuff in a glass Lynn knew more—and less—about radio than she had ever known. Her head whirled. She felt as if she had been transported to a new world and there had heard an entirely alien language.

"You're bored to death!" he said.

"No, I'm not. I don't understand half you're saying," she admitted, "but go on; I like it!"

It was true, she did like it. She liked watching him; liked the grave twisting of his mouth, the changing color of his eyes, the gestures of the big hands which looked so awkward and which must be so deft with wires.

Presently over coffee, large, over their companionable cigarets, he was telling her that he lived in a "dump" with another man, an engineer with the telephone company. He was telling her of the Long Island town where he had been born, where he had gone to school. "Used to be all farms, that town. My great-grandad owned most of 'em. Didn't hold on, though, more's the pity." He told her of fishing in Peconic Bay, of swimming, of his first stolen airplane flight with a commercial pilot.

LOANS MONEY

It was past 10 o'clock when he deposited her on the narrow brownstone steps of the club. "Tomorrow night?" he asked. "And I'll see you at breakfast?"

She stood a step above him and looked down. "No," she answered. "I mean, yes, for breakfast, but not tomorrow night. I promised one of the girls I'd go to the movies with her."

"Wednesday, then?" .. .. ..

"I'm going to dinner at Miss Dennet's."

"Thursday?"

He was grave and stubborn. She gave in, laughing.

"Thursday, then," she agreed, "but no more celebrations. We'll go somewhere cheap, and fifty-fifty."

"Well, I guess not!"

"Please — if we're to be friends!" She added bluntly, "You can't afford to take me out all the time. This way is better. I won't go unless you say you understand."

"Oh, all right." He was sullen, his male pride wounded. He added eagerly, "But once in a while—every ten days—my party. How about it? Shall we compromise?"

"Maybe. We'll see." Natural coquetry stirred her to say, "but perhaps in 10 days you'll—"

"Don't say it. Not in 10 years. Not in 10 times 10 years!" said Tom.

DUTCH TREATS

Lynn whistled her way upstairs. She went up two flights and entered her room. Nine by something. Bed, bureau, clothes closet, chair. Chintz, a little worn. On the window sill a pot of flowers the Wilkins boy had sent.

Mollie Eames stuck her fly-away head in the door. "You sound happy," said Mollie. "Lend me two bucks will you? I'm broke. Anyone in your frame of mind can afford to be broke. I can't. Had a heavy date?"

Lynn replied seriously: "About 175 pounds, I imagine."

"Lord, a truck driver! How about the two?"

"Help yourself; there's my purse."

"It's great to be crazy," said Mollie sourly.

She wouldn't like him so well, perhaps, at breakfast tomorrow. He'd sort of taken her off her feet, that was all. She picked up a book. "Financial Systems," the gilt lettering read soberly. She opened it. "When bonds have a single maturity date—"

She threw it down and went to bed.

Six weeks later Lynn, just before closing time, took the express elevator to the thirtieth floor, upon which the Seacoast Company maintained recreation and rest rooms, with a trained nurse in charge for all women workers in the building.

HELPS POOR WOMAN

She went there in order to return a book from the loan library also installed by the Seacoast Company for the convenience of its women employes.

The lavatories and mirrored washstands were crowded with chattering girls and women. Here friendships were made, here enmities were established and here the gossip of the day filtered through hundreds of mouths.

A cleaning woman went by. Lynn stopped her.

"How's your little boy, Mary?" she asked.

Mary's dull eyes brightened. "Much better, miss," she said gratefully, "and Miss Raines"—she gestured toward the nurse in the restroom—"has promised to come out and see him this evening."

"That's nice." Lynn smiled and went on. In the lounge several girls were talking. The radio was on full blast. In the rest room the nurse was occupied; a girl was lying there on the long couch. Back of the rest room was the small office-like dispensary.

Lynn hesitated a moment, then went in. The nurse, a middle-aged woman with a plain, attractive face and handsome brown eyes, smiled at her. They had struck up an acquaintance some weeks earlier over a particularly good detective story. "Miss Raines?"

"Yes? What can I do for you?"

"Nothing. But Mary — her youngster's sick." Lynn explained: "she said you were going there tonight." Lynn fumbled in her bag and put a bill into the nurse's hands. "It isn't much, but it might buy them something they need."

"I expect it will. That's good of you, Mary—her husband's no good, you see. Drinks. Hasn't a job, of course. She has all she can do to get along." Miss Raines told her, tucking the bill into the crisp white uniform pocket.

The girl on the couch stirred and lifted her heavy lids. She was a tall girl, beautifully formed, with masses of wheat-gold hair worn in the generally unbecoming long bob. But not unbecoming to Jennie Le Grande (nee Smith).

"She's one of the models from the French wholesale house on the twentieth floor," explained Miss Raines, low. "She came up here, complained of feeling ill, and fainted. She's been out of it for some time now. She's all right."

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Accused of Placing Boys in Danger

"Look!" Mother Graham commanded again. "That's a man out there, but I can't tell whether it's a white man or a Chinese. Can you?"

"I don't think it's a Chinese," I said.

"What good is thinking?" she demanded, and I forgave her the asperity in her voice because of the tremors that still shook her frail figure.

"I can tell you in a second." I said quietly. "Let me get the field glasses and we can tell."

She loosened my arm abruptly.

"Of course," she said. "But be quick."

NOT CHINESE

Her voice was raucous, strained. I rushed to the table where we kept the field glasses and, returning, proffered them to her, but to my surprise she pushed them back with trembling hands.

"No!" she said tremulously. "You look! I couldn't see anything."

I took the glasses and focused them upon that distant, moving figure coming toward the fence from the other side. The field glasses were powerful ones, and the next instant I lowered them and spoke quickly, reassuringly, to my mother-in-law.

"It's all right, mother," I said. "That's Winchell. And look, Mr. Underwood and Henry and William have just come out the thicket. Do you want to look?"

She shook her head and suddenly caught at my arm.

"What are they going to do?" she quavered.

"They're going to find out what that thing is on the fence, without touching it if possible," I answered. "They're also going to see that no one is lurking anywhere in the vicinity."

ELDERLY WOMAN IRED

"Then they're going to wigwag to Dicky and the little boys, so that the youngsters can take the white thing off the fence and bring it back to the house. They were the ones who saw it first, and they are so anxious to have the privilege of bringing it in."

"So, in order to humor those children in something utterly ridiculous, you permitted them to flaunt my orders, and go out there into danger of their lives!"

"I don't believe there's any danger, Mother. Mr. Underwood sent Winchell ahead on purpose to scout for anybody lurking around, and—"

"Fiddlesticks!" she said. "What's to prevent those devils from shooting those poisoned darts on the men, and then running in and kidnaping the children?"

"Oh! Mother, don't!" I adjured, torn between an unreasoning fear born of her fantastic forebodings, and an unseemly, mirthful reflection that my august mother-in-law must have been secretly perusing some highly colored melodramas—and incidentally getting mixed up in the murder customs of different peoples.

She glared at me.

"Yes, you can say, 'Oh! Mother, don't!' now," she said triumphantly, "but you didn't think anything about me when you were sending my two grandsons out there into danger.

MADGE ALARMED

"Look through those field glasses again!" she commanded, and the quaver in her voice told me that her rancor was being tempered by a recurring panic. It was a panic that was fast communicating itself to me, and I found my hands tremoling violently as I endeavored to adjust the glasses to my eyes. I finally put them down and shaded my eyes with my hand.

"What's the matter with you?" she asked sharply.

"I—I don't know," I answered dully. "The glasses do not focus, some way. I can't see anything out of them."

She swooped toward the table where I had put them down, and with shaking hands tried to lift them to her own eyes.

"I'm going out there," she observed, when she had dropped the glasses impotently into the nearest chair. "I—I—can't stand this any longer."

"But we can't leave little Faith, I protested, and the magic of the baby's name stopped her short in her hurried movement toward the door.

"That's so, we can't," she said. "We're tied here, as if we were cattle hobbled out. Oh, what is it?"

For I had given a little cry, and was leaning out over the balcony rail, straining my eyes on the distant pasture fence.

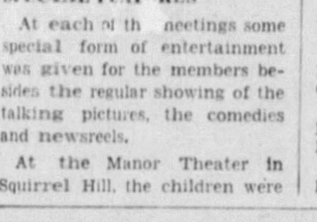
SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB



CAMERAPHONE CLOWNS

I pledge loyalty to my country, obedience to my parents, love for my fellow playmates.

I will be honest and truthful in school, on the playgrounds—wherever I may be.

I will respect my elders and help the aged. I will do my best to spread good cheer.

The above pledge was recited this morning by several thousand boys and girls attending the regular weekly meetings of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, held in 17 of the Warner Theaters throughout the Pittsburgh area.

SPECIAL FEATURES

At each of the meetings some special form of entertainment was given for the members besides the regular showing of the talking pictures, the comedies and newsreels.

At the Manor Theater in Squirrel Hill, the children were astonished by the feats of magic performed by "Tampa" the magician. He had every "kiddie" present wondering where all the live rabbits came from and where all the subjects went when they disappeared from his hands.

CLOWNS ENTERTAIN

At the Cameraphone Theater the children were entertained by seven of the members, all of whom were made up as Komic Club clowns. The antics of these clever little fellows, as they tumbled and jumped all over the stage, plus the comedy they injected into their act, kept the members of this chapter laughing and shouting long after they had disappeared from the stage.

In the Junior Komic Club columns of tomorrow's Sunday Sun-Telegraph you will find the pictures of eight of the "Official Junior Reporters" who came down to the Sun-Telegraph office to see how the news is gathered which appears every day in the Sun-Telegraph.

A Neglected Tax Source

The Public Utilities Should Contribute to the City—Brief Comment on Local News.

Gov. Pinchot's program for unemployment relief legislation includes a recommendation that the exemption which municipally owned public utilities enjoy from the 8-mill state tax on gross receipts be removed. But a much richer return would come by the abolition of the exemption that public utilities enjoy from local taxation on real estate.

*In the latest report on the subject, dated Decem*ber 31, 1930, the City Controller reported that public utilities owned $21,604,098 of tax-exempt land and $9,604,025 of tax-exempt buildings in Pittsburgh, or a total of $31,208,123 assessed valuation of real estate from which the city received no revenue. At the current rate that property would yield the city more than $600,000 a year.

It is unfair that public utilities should be excused from contributing to the expenses of running the city. They use the streets; they receive police protection; they benefit by the maintenance of the fire department. They should pay for these services and privileges the same as other property owners.

At $100 a month per family the city real estate taxes from which public utilities operating in Pittsburgh are exempt would, if paid, take care of the necessities of more than 6,000 destitute families for a month. In normal times the removal of the public utilities' exemption would lessen the tax burden of the small home owner and other taxpayers.

The theory on which tax exemption was granted the public utilities was that if their expenses were made light they would give the public low rates for their service. But it has not worked out that way in Pittsburgh, as the 25-cent bus fare charged by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company for a 10-cent ride and the excessive rates of the Duquesne Light Company for electric service bear witness.

*The public utilities are among the most pros*perous of Pittsburgh's commercial enterprises. While many other corporations which pay city taxes were losing money last year, the Duquesne Light Company was able to report the largest net earnings in its history. While other companies have passed along to their customers reductions in the prices of the things they buy, the Duquesne Light Company's charges are the same as when prosperity was at its peak.

In the hope of avoiding the expense of defending a lawsuit President Frank R. Phillips, of the Philadelphia Company, offered picayunish cuts in bus and electric light rates. City Council properly rejected them as inadequate. The negotiations are said to be continuing. In the meantime the people are still paying the exorbitant rates. Phillips should reduce them at once, without waiting for the outcome of the negotiations.

While City Council and the City Law Department study electric light and bus rates they should also give some attention to the fairness of gas rates. Gas rates as well as other public utilities charges have come down in many places. Only a few days ago the Detroit City Gas Company voluntarily reduced its rate. Our municipal authorities should be more aggressive.

*The whole question of the public utilities treat*ment of the public might well be considered by the Legislature at the proposed extra session for unemployment relief. Excessive charges for such necessities as gas and electric light bear a direct relationship to the hardships of the destitute, and tax exemptions enjoyed by the utilities bear a direct relationship to the ability of the state and the municipalities to grant relief.

The Sun-Telegraph had occasion to condemn the other day the narrow-minded selfishness of rural legislators who oppose a special session because their farming constituencies are not suffering like the cities from the industrial slump. The rural legislators are short-sighted. Even from the viewpoint of narrow-minded selfishness the rural communities would find a special session to their advantage.

John E. Crawford, a director of the Eye and Ear Hospital, points out that rural districts will lose heavily in the neglect of their destitute sick if the Legislature does not restore the 25 per cent cut in the state's appropriations to hospitals. Hundreds of cases from rural communities are treated in Pittsburgh's state-aided special hospitals.

The hospitals are seriously "in the red." Unable to collect payment from many of their patients, they are consequently unable to pay their own bills for materials and services. The threat is made that, unless the state comes to the rescue, some of them will be forced to close, while the Eye and Ear Hospital hints that it may have to lay down drastic rules restricting the area from which charity patients will be accepted.

Pittsburgh will miss Father Cox during his absence on his annual pilgrimage to Lourdes and Rome. The militant priest has shown a quality of leadership that is sadly lacking among many of the public men to whom we turn for leadership. He is fearless and resolute. That is one reason why thousands of people are glad to follow his guidance.

The annual investigation of social service agencies financed by the Welfare Fund is now under way. It is being made by a committee of more than 100, headed by Edwin C. May. The inspection and checking of finances is even more important this year than ordinarily, and it should be reassuring to the public to know that the recipients of its bounty are subjected to this keen and critical scrutiny by an impartial body.

*The "bonus marchers" proceeding through Penn*sylvania on their way to Washington must appreciate the beauty of our mountains after the long trek through the flatness of the Middle West. Two beautiful pictures of Pennsylvania's hills will be reproduced in the Gravure Section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. There will be some more photographs of interesting babies, too.

A fine new serial, "Desire," by Madeleine Sharps Buchanan, will start tomorrow in the American Weekly, distributed as a supplement with the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. "Popular Beliefs That Are All Wrong" is the subject of one of the many interesting and instructive articles. The illustrations, some in color, are also worthy of mention.

Rocky -:- -:- By Nelson Harding

It is indeed a "Rocky" road
On which we find the Bone Dry Code.
And we can see the Wagon rock
Beneath that unexpected shock!

A landslide fairly blocks the way
That leads on to Convention Day,
And that great bowlder will be found
An awkward Rock to get around!

Marry-Go-Round

Light as Summer Love

It is quite a while before a girl realizes that a man's "Forever!" means merely, "Until I get tired."

* * *

When you tell a man that a girl has "beautiful ideals," somehow, he is always half afraid to meet her, for fear that one of her "ideals" may be marriage.

* * *

In the average man's eyes, a few ex-husbands seem to be the most convincing testimonial of a woman's attractions.

But you can't gauge a woman's charms by the number of times she has been divorced, because it's a far more difficult feat to hold onto ONE husband, these days, than it is to lose half a dozen.

* * *

Self-expression is a grand and a glorious thing—but you can't run it through a wedding ring, and it wouldn't fit into a kitchenette apartment. Marriage is a Burbanked product of the crossing of two individualities, the merging of two personalities; and not even Burbank, himself, could have crossed a pair of egotists, successfully.

* * *

Modern life is becoming so easy, that we are getting soft—and restless. [illegible] such a button—and lo, there [illegible]ight! We turn a knob—and [illegible]old, there is tropical heat. And [illegible] up-to-date undertaker can ma[illegible] our funeral look as gay and at[illegible]ive as an afternoon tea so t[illegible]even dying has lost its sting.

The modern woman has begun to think seriously about life—but she still uses up a lot of gray matter wondering whether to let her hair grow out or not, and whether to stick to henna or let it alone.

* * *

If there is really "no marrying in Heaven," opines Cynical Sallie, it is probably because not enough men will get up there to go around.

* * *

A man is not half so likely to die of a broken heart, when a [illegible] turns him down, these days, as he is to drop dead from surprise.

Isn't It So?

Evil words cut worse than swords.

A long tongue is the sign of a short hand.

Many a man suspects his neighbor as he suspects himself.

What we need especially to learn is the gospel of thoroughness.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 11.—I'm not so spry today. Every whipstitch I feel myself shading off into pea green, the world stops, zooms into a twirl, and I pop out in a dew like the sweat on an ice water pitcher. Still this blank paper must be filled. This is my cross.

Speaking of crosses, I look as though I might have just been yanked down from one and, at intervals, I have a letch to leap up and shriek: "Gangway for the scuppers!" A second, please. I don't feel so squeamish if I droop a little to one side in my chair. That's better.

I suppose they have dragged you out to one of those after-theater repasts, too. That's what they did to me. Although I didn't eat a solitary bite. Not a snack. Too often have I filled to the guzzle on Welsh rabbit and wrestled the rest of the night with a snorting dragon in Times Square—stark naked.

I use restraint. That's what I use. And what, may I ask, are you using this season? Don't pay attention to me. Just giddiness. It will pass. By this time tomorrow, I'll be all merry and bright. You cannot keep a good man down. That is, all the way down.

Just looping over in the side of my chair this way isn't down. See, I can stand on my feet. Even on one foot. No, I guess I better not try that. Repose is what I need. That and a guardian. Did I tell you I didn't eat or drink a thing? But, would you believe me, I can't recall a soul who was there.

Everything is a blank. Just like this paper when I sat down. But notice how I am filling it up. There's only white space now from here down. Above—there, I looked up quickly and am all dizzy again. I could fill the rest with "Now is the time for all good men, etc." But that would be trickery.

If my wife were sympathetic, she'd stand by and fan. But she lets me sit here in my weakened condition and carry on. She'd feel pretty badly if I toppled from this chair, hit my head on the waste paper basket and carried a big scar over my eye the rest of my life.

* * *

As I was saying, it was a midnight repast, a buffet. Stuffed tomatoes, pork and beans, scalloped potatoes, imported sardines—but do you mind if I talk of something else? I see by the papers there's a place in San Salvador where you can live for 10 cents a day. That's no good. Forget I said anything. I'm only trying to keep my mind off food. The way I feel about it from now they'll have to feed me a spoonful every fourth day through a quill.

* * *

I think I told you I ate nothing at the midnight supper. I get that far and everything begins to swim. What I'd give to stretch out on the sofa, close my eyes and have Kreisler play something. Has anyone a deck of cards? I often divert my mind with solitaire. Never mind, don't hunt for them. I couldn't keep track and before I knew it I'd be cheating.

* * *

As I told you I stayed until 4 a. m. without eating a bite. Listening to stews sing sour songs and tell stories. Every time I'd start to go, the host would take me out in the pantry to inquire: "Whaz I ever do to you? Throw you a swell party and whaz you do, run out like a dirty dog, at's whaz you do. You know sumpin'? People talking about you. Know whaz say? Say you're ole hermit. Poor ole Odd. No pep. Jus' a home body. Fireside pappy." Then he'd break down sobbing and I'd have to go back.

* * *

Anyway I got home at 4:30, famished. Nothing to eat since dinner and sitting around watching gluttons. So I detoured to the ice box, dreaming of a cold potato, a bowl of chilled macaroni or perhaps a leftover ham hock. (Is that thinking up vittles?) And what do you suppose I found—surprise, surprise! Well, suckers, a huge plate of cold beef stew, with a jelly-like layer. You've seen a hungry hound wolf his supper after a hunt. That was the picture with a real life hero. The way I lapped it up was nobody's business.

* * *

And I felt dandy this morning, too. No fuzzy tongue or anything. That is, until I sat at the typewriter. From the pantry I heard my wife say to the cook: "Martha, what became of the beef stew I mixed with the sulphur and medicated biscuits for the dogs last night? I put it here and it's gone." Awk!

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I was young when I first heard about the great statue, "The Winged Victory;" very young, and ignorant, and impatient; hotly in love with living.

I looked with contempt on the dull, discouraged people around me. I rebelled furiously against their compromises, and surrenders, and defeats.

"I shall not live like that!" I said to myself, in disgust. "I shall not give up and be beaten by circumstances. I am going to make my own terms with life.

"I am going to command—I am going to win!"

Then, casually, someone told me that there was a noble statue called "The Winged Victory," made long ago.

The idea excited me. I wondered what that statue was like. "Winged Victory"—what a glorious name! How splendid it must be! They would know how to make it splendidly—those old pagans, who lived in the heroic days. They would picture just such a victory as I wanted, beautiful and triumphant, with her proud head unlifted and her great, fighting arms extended, and her beautiful, free wings spread wide!

I wanted to see that statue—that Winged Victory which would be the image [illegible] secret dream!

Then, one day, I did see it; and I was terribly surprised and shocked.

How dreadful to call this poor, maimed piece of stone "Victory!" Perhaps it had been victorious once, but it was certainly so no longer. There was no head—only a jagged stump of neck. The arms were gone; the foot. Only the wings remained, powerful and free, and the strong body, with draperies flung back in its swift advance.

So I thought, when I was young, believing in my ignorance and intolerance, that Victory must emerge whole and radiant from conflict.

But now I am older, and have seen conflict myself, and have learned a few things about victory and defeat.

AND NOW I KNOW THAT VICTORY IS NEVER WHOLE OR RADIANT.

FOR THOSE WHO WIN THROUGH ANY NOBLE FIGHT, FACE FEARFUL ODDS.

THEY MUST FIGHT MALICE WITHOUT, AND THEIR OWN COWARDICE WITHIN.

THEY MUST SACRIFICE, AND LOSE MUCH THAT SEEMED MOST PRECIOUS — THEIR DREAMS, THEIR PRIDE, THEIR HOPE AND HAPPINESS, EVEN THE DEAREST TREASURE OF THEIR HEARTS—

SO THOSE WHO CONQUER ARE ALWAYS CRIPPLED, ALWAYS SCARRED!

BUT STILL THEIR WINGS ARE SPREAD, AND STILL THEIR CRIPPLED FEET STRIDE ON!

AND THEY ARE BEAUTIFUL!

Often, moving along the streets, looking deeply into the faces of men and women, I think of that; particularly in these days when I see millions of men and women starving, homeless and in rags, not knowing what the morrow holds—YET FIGHTING ON!

Weary, worried men and women trying to keep homes together; trying to give their children happiness; trying to give each other courage; trying to keep faith with their nation.

BUT GOD MUST SEE THEIR SOULS' BRAVE WINGS OUTSPREAD.

AND MARK THE PATIENT PROGRESS OF THEIR CRIPPLED FEET.

AND KNOW THEM FOR THE VICTORS THAT THEY ARE!

Mr. Rockefeller Faces Realities

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Representative Oliver, of New York, once said in a sentence just about all that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., says in his letter favoring the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, when he said:

"Prohibition is the child of the church. But the church turned it over to the government to bring up, and it has brought it up as a bandit."

For many years fine men and women, ardent enemies of drink, consecrated themselves to the cause of temperance. These, with few exceptions, meant temperance and not prohibition. Under the emotional stress of the war, others saw an opportunity to put through the most drastic experiment this nation has ever tried.

The Eighteenth Amendment was forced through; and under the hysteria, state after state ratified in notorious contradiction of the sentiment of the people. It was literally a crime against government for New York State to ratify—for the Republican Legislature that acted knew absolutely that the sentiment in that state was overwhelmingly against it.

The result we know. And this result was known to be inevitable by everyone familiar with history and the reactions of men to unpopular laws. No law that is bitterly opposed by as much as 33 per cent of the people can, or will be, enforced. To attempt to enforce it is to destroy the unity of a people.

* * *

Crime Defies Government And Imperils It

But Mr. Rockefeller's letter taking his stand with the repealists is of more than casual interest because he has been a warm supporter of prohibition and has been a liberal contributor to the Anti-Saloon League. It appears that he has acted in accord with the traditional feeling of his family. But, aside from Mr. Rockefeller, there is no doubt but that great industrialists have been the backbone of the prohibition movement in the recent past. Their motive was not moral or altruistic. They felt that it would mean more work from their employes for the same money if they could be deprived of their week-end entertainment.

It is not pleasing to add that these industrialists had no intention of depriving themselves. The workers were to be deprived of their beer; but the wealthy were to continue with their Scotch and wine. Everyone knows that to be true.

But no one realized that prohibition would become the most prolific source of crime we have ever known. It does not just happen that the petty pickpockets have disappeared from the streets; that the house-breaker is now a novelty.

The opportunities of prohibition invited the criminal class to richer fields. Where thousands of dollars were the rewards of the criminals before, millions were offered. The bootleggers, the hijackers had to mobilize for their work. Crime became an organized industry. It is the most highly organized and the most powerfully financed industry in the country today; and it moves in the dark with guns. It defies government—and imperils it.

* * *

Industrialists See A New Light

And just now another explanation of the reaction against prohibition enters. We wondered some years ago why so little was being said about the loss in revenue by making the liquor traffic immune from taxation. But times were good. Factories were working day and night. Big wages and big profits were the rule. These were the flush days and no one worried much about his taxes.

How different today, with our enormous deficit in the Treasury and a tax bill that places the greatest burden on all the people ever laid in the darkest days of war! And now with men thinking of their taxes, they are awakening to the fact that the most profitable industry in the land pays no taxes at all; that from this industry, immune from taxation here, other nations raise a large portion of their revenue; that if we followed the example of the other nations the rest of us would not be staggering under a tax load that is about all that we can bear.

The industrialists, the rich, who have been financing prohibition organizations, have suddenly seen a new light.

* * *

Mr. Rockefeller Tells Why

We do not ascribe Mr. Rockefeller's conversion to repeal to this motive. He sets forth his expectations from the Eighteenth Amendment, and his disappointment:

"Drinking generally has increased; the speakeasy has replaced the saloon, not only unit for unit, but probably two-fold, if not three-fold; a vast army of law-breakers has been recruited and financed on a colossal scale; many of our best citizens, piqued at what they regarded as an infringement of their private rights, have openly and unabashed disregarded the Eighteenth Amendment; and as an inevitable result respect for all law has been greatly lessened; crime has increased to an unprecedented degree."

To this conclusion he admits he has come "slowly and reluctantly."

And yet it is a conclusion no one with courage to face realities can escape.

The same conclusion was drawn by Representative Oliver, of New York, two or three years ago in the House, in more humorous vein:

"The government has succeeded in drawing liquor all the way from the bar to the boudoir; from the saloon to the salon; from hops to hips; from the keg to the kitchen; from the loud speaker to the speak easy."

* * *

Millions of People In Abject Misery

Morally, we have degenerated under this experiment with the impossible. Women and children who never thought of drink before must have their liquor now—and get it. Just what the effect will be on the oncoming generation we can only guess. We now know something of the effect on the attitude of millions toward our political institutions and our Constitution.

It is not a happy omen when most of the tourists passing the Statue of Liberty in the harbor of New York are constrained to sneer and jeer or joke. Because prohibition is written into the Constitution, millions, knowing little of the general character of that document, look upon it with contempt or with anger as an enemy.

And when these millions are told that under our constitutional forms an insignificant minority of the people in a minority of the states can prevent the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, it is impossible to convince them that we have a democracy, or a government of the people, by the people and for the people.

And when they reflect upon the notorious corruption in the enforcement service, they are appalled at the hypocrisy and dishonesty in government.

Just now when American institutions are on trial and many millions of people in abject misery and want are sitting on the jury, this state of things constitutes a deadly peril.

* * *

What Is the Matter With America?

There was a time when a good majority of the people favored the prohibition experiment; today the condemnation of the results is general. There are millions of people, like Mr. Rockefeller, who had hoped for the miracle of changing the very nature of human beings by a constitutional amendment; now they are convinced it is impossible. The old-time temperance workers, for whose memory one has a profound respect, knows today that prohibition has set their work back instead of advancing it.

Other nations—even one dominated by force through autocratic power—have abandoned prohibition as impossible of attainment; though none have gone back to the evils of the old system.

What is the matter with America?

Are we the only nation that refuses to face realities and prefers to stumble along in a fool's paradise? Are we a nation of fanatics? Are we the only land where the majority cannot rule and popular sentiment cannot dictate?

It is time to erase sumptuary laws from the statutes, and end the mockery of the Constitution.
